Firemen Braced For 1st World Series Victory Since 1918

JIM LONBORG

BOSTON (AP)—The Fire Department was poised and ready today to lead Bostonians anxious to celebrate the first World Series victory for their Red Sox since 1918.

Fire Commissioner William J. Fitzgerald said a Red Sox win over the St. Louis Cardinals would be his signal to order firemen to move all fire engines in the city onto aprons in front of their stations, and then sound their sirens, bells and horns.

The U.S. Weather Bureau predicted variable cloudiness with some sunshine and temperatures in the upper 50s by game time, with only a 20 per cent chance of rain.

Asked to name his starting battery for the seventh and deciding game of the classic, Boston Manager Dick Williams said, "Lonborg and Champagne."

Jim Lonborg, 22-9 during the regular season and winner of two World Series games for the Red Sox, was set to be opposed on the mound by Bob Gibson, winner of two World Series games for St. Louis and 13-7 during the season despite being out for almost two months with a broken leg.

U.S. Aides Claim They Unaware Of Thieu's Peace Bid

SAIGON (AP) — With shifting monsoon weather already slowing the air war against North Vietnam, South Vietnamese Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu disclosed today he will soon propose a one-week pause in the bombing and a face-to-face meeting with President Ho Chi Minh.

American officials disclaimed prior knowledge of the peace initiatives by the head of the military regime who recently was elected president. Thieu had promised some such proposal during the campaign, and a spokesman said he intended to make it formal with an official letter to the North Vietnamese leader shortly after his inauguration Oct. 30.

Thieu's announcement coincided with a general slackening in the ground and air war although there were scattered flareups.

U.S. COMMAND reported continued Red shelling—but on a reduced scale of Marine outposts south of the demilitarized zone and another Red mortar attack on a big Mekong Delta town, the second this week.

The latter shelling, of Chau Doc hard by the Cambodian border, killed four civilians and wounded 25.

Some American and South Vietnamese military casualties also were reported, but the number was not immediately known.

The slackening in the war was reflected in the weekly casualty report from U.S. headquarters which said 102 Americans were killed in action last week, the smallest weekly number in two months, while 890 were wounded and 26 were missing or captured. The week before 150

Policeman Testifies On 'Elimination' Of 3 Rights Workers

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — The Justice Department has summoned more Ku Klux Klansmen to testify in the 1964 slaying of three civil rights workers, described by a Meridian police sergeant as part of a Klan "elimination" plot.

The policeman, testified Wednesday before a U.S. District Court jury along with FBI agents and physicians.

The sergeant, Carlton Wallace Miller, 43, told the packed courtroom Wednesday the slayings were part of a Klan "elimination" plot approved by the imperial wizard of the militant White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

Miller, a former Klan member, testified he received $2,400 over a two-year period from the FBI to provide information on the slayings.

The bodies of Michael Schwerner, 24, and Andrew Goodman, 20, both of New York, and James Chaney, 22, a Meridian Negro, were found buried in an earthen dam on Aug. 4, 1964 after 44 days of intensive searching.

Additional testimony is expected from James Edward Jordan who was whisked into the courthouse Wednesday surrounded by armed guards. Jordan is under indictment in the case, but jurisdiction has been transferred to a federal court district in Georgia.

Asst. U.S. Atty. John Doar, the Justice Department's chief civil rights trouble shooter, personally handled the examination of Miller as the stocky policeman told his story calmly.

66 Lose Lives In Crash Of British Jetliner At Sea

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — A British-Cypriot Comet jetliner crashed into the Mediterranean off the southwest coast of Turkey today and all 66 persons aboard are presumed killed, a spokesman for the British Royal Air Force announced.

Operated by British European Airways for Cyprus Airways, the Comet 4 jet was on a flight from London and Athens to Nicosia with 59 passengers and a crew of seven.

The plane left London Wednesday night and stopped briefly before dawn in Athens. It crashed into the sea about an hour later near the Dodecanese island of Kastellorizon, a spokesman for BEA said.

The RAF spokesman said an Air Force rescue launch and other ships were alongside wreckage of the plane and no survivors were found.

The ships began pulling bodies from the sea and picking up wreckage.

A spokesman for the airline said there was no indication yet of the cause of the crash.

Police on Kastellorizon said the airliner was seen to crash about 35 miles southeast of the island. A spokesman said the island's harbor authorities dispatched a fishing boat to the scene of the crash.

A BEA spokesman in London said most of the passengers were businessmen or vacationers and that some children were aboard. The three-man flying crew was British and the two stewards and two stewardesses were Cypriots. The spokesman said 32 passengers boarded the plane at London and 27 in Athens.

It was the second crash in five months of a passenger plane bound for Cyprus. A chartered Swiss Britannia turbo-prop crashed in April as it was landing on the island in a thunderstorm, killing 126 persons. Most were German and British tourists.

The BEA spokesman said the Comet sent no distress signal before going down today, "it just disappeared." The weather was reported clear at the time.

Naval and passenger ships in the area were alerted and the U.S. Air Force base in Athens sent a plane to Katellorizon to join the search for survivors.

Five RAF planes were conducting the air search. An RAF spokesman said while the pilots spotted wreckage, they were not sure it was from the plane and no survivors were seen.

IRS Lists 'Earnings'

U.S. Millionaires Shell Out Their Share Of Taxes

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — It takes a lot of capital gains and dividends to make a millionaire, the Internal Revenue Service can attest.

And although millionaires do get tax breaks, IRS records show they still pay a goodly share of their incomes in taxes.

The service said the average tax paid by 624 persons who made $1 million or more during 1965—the latest data available—was $966,838. Twenty-two other million-dollar earners paid no tax, however.

Although IRS is barred by law from revealing details of a person's tax return, officials said the millionaire who pays no tax can usually trace his good fortune to foreign tax credits and charitable or other large deductions.

Data compiled by IRS doesn't reflect the true picture of the millionaire, however, since interest from tax-free municipal bonds need not be reported as income.

IRS figures are also based on adjusted gross income—which doesn't show what depletion allowances may have been claimed for gas, oil or mineral holdings.

Most of the income of the 646 million-dollar earners in 1965 came from sales of capital assets—$845.1 million of the $1.4 billion they reported in total adjusted gross income. The adjusted gross averaged nearly $2.2 million each.

The second leading source was dividends at $483.3 million.

Long-term capital gains are taxed at a maximum 25 per cent rate, thus giving not only millionaires but also other taxpayers a break if they hold their capital assets—such as stocks and bonds—more than six months.

Even with this allowance, 1965's average million-dollar earner paid nearly 45 per cent of his adjusted gross income in taxes.

Purse With $70 Taken From River Rd. Diner

Mrs. June McCoy of 928 Florence St., an employe of the Midway Diner on the River Rd., told police her purse containing $70 was stolen from atop a coat rack in the main dining room of the establishment between 3 and 7 a. m. today.

Mrs. McCoy told officers the tan straw pocketbook contained a wallet in which the cash was kept. A driver's license and other miscellaneous items also are missing, she said.

West Virginia Mine Breaks, Floods Town

MONTGOMERY, W. Va. (AP)—A construction crew carrying out demolition work for a bridge overpass was suspected of unwittingly releasing a flood of muddy well water trapped in an abandoned coal mine near this small college town Wednesday.

Dynamiting during the day is believed to have loosened underground walls in the mine, causing the water — which had accumulated over the last 40 years to burst forth, submerging streets and flooding the business district of this Fayette County community.

The water, four-to-five feet deep at times, caused only one minor injury to the town's 3,500 residents but resulted in scattered power failures and numerous small fires. One blaze reportedly caused severe damage to an automobile dealer's showroom. A fireman was overcome by smoke fighting the blaze.

Gov. Hulett Smith rushed to the site and immediately ordered state civil defense units to come to the aid of the National Guard and local civil defense units, who had built an earth channel to direct the flow of the blackish, smelly water.

For more than two hours the water of the old Mud Sink Mine streamed through the downtown district before it could be diverted. It was another three hours before streets were finally cleared.

The town's water supply was not contaminated by the flooding.

Aiken Backs Analysis Of Viet Bombing

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., supports a proposal by Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., for a presidential reassessment of North Vietnam bombing. But Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., calls for more effective air strikes.

Aiken, senior Senate Republican and a critic of President Johnson's Asian policies, applauded in an interview Brooke's assertion that because previous bombing pauses have failed to bring negotiations doesn't mean a new suspension would be unproductive.

Brooke told a Springfield, Mass., audience Wednesday night that although he felt on a visit to Vietnam last March the bombing was having a "salutary effect" he now believes the situation has changed miliarily and politically.

Blast Wrecks Ohio Concern

Some Firms Oppose Bid To Settle Trucker Strike

Resistance to terms of the proposed settlement for a two-month steel haulers strike was reported today as violence continued in scattered areas of the nine states involved.

Representatives of 82 trucking firms at a meeting in Pittsburgh came up with counter proposals which could stymie a quick end to the protest move.

And a spokesman for the National Steel Carriers Association said at Detroit his group will reject the settlement plan.

"We will not accept it," Walter Mantho was quoted by the Detroit Free Press as saying.

Mantho said Wednesday the agreement, drafted by a delegation of governors' representatives from seven states, "is not worth the paper it's written on.

"There are many points in the agreement that just cannot be arrived at legally," he said. "We will meet Friday to make a decision, but I'm sure it will not be accepted."

Strike leaders said they were satisfied with the proposal hammered out in two days of meetings and would return to the highways under its terms—if approved by the carriers.

At Middletown, Ohio, a dynamite explosion ripped through a trucking firm early today, causing at least $2,000 damages. No one was injured.

The front and office equipment of the Aetna Freight Line, police said, was left a smouldering wreck by the explosives placed about three feet from the front facade.

Rome Lindeman, manager of the firm, told police his company had not hauled any steel within the last four weeks—but it had planned to resume freight operations today.

Pizza Proves Columbus Was The First On Shore

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pennsylvania Supreme Court Justice Michael A. Musmanno says he has new evidence that it was the Italians, not the Vikings, who discovered America.

"I have traveled up and down the Atlantic seaboard and never did I find any evidence of smorgasbords being established here until the latter half of the 19th century," he said Wednesday on the eve of Columbus Day in a humor-filled talk.

"On the other hand I found from Caribbean shores to Newfoundland coasts overwhelming evidence of the ruins of pizza foundries which go back to the latter half of the 15th century."

Musmanno, who rarely misses a chance to praise Columbus said, "I always worship at the shrine of truth and fairness. If I had found any evidence that the Vikings got here before Columbus, I would admit it."

MEET THE MUSIC MACHINE

- PICK A CARTRIDGE
- INSERT INSIDE
- PLAY

The Music Machine plays tapes that come in skinny little Play Tape cartridges. (We thought you might be tired of lugging records around. Or listening to what disc jockeys want to hear.)

Now you just pick a tape. Push it in. And The Music Machine makes music.

One little PlayTape cartridge will keep you going with four selections. The tapes have two tracks and they're continuous. You don't rewind.

What can you play? Well, what do you like? The theme from Dr. Zhivago sound track? Or how about The Tijuana Brass, Ella Fitzgerald, Herman's Hermits, Stan Getz, The Righteous Brothers, The Animals, Connie Francis? They're just some of the people who play in The Music Machine.

The model you see here is 19.95. Further up the line, we've got one for less than 30.00. (The cartridges, by the way, are 1.49.)

Stop by. And you can have music wherever you go.

Americans were killed, 1,758 wounded and three were missing.

Despite the reduction in U.S. casualties, South Vietnamese casualties climbed sharply while the number of enemy reported killed increased 231 over the previous week to 1,331. The South Vietnamese reported 254 of their men killed last week, 687 wounded and 52 missing, compared with 114 killed, 461 wounded and five missing the week before.

U.S. headquarters reported that American warplanes flew only 97 missions over North Vietnam Wednesday, well below the daily average of the preceding months. Cloud cover blanketed most of the North, and pilots had little to report in the way of bomb damage.

MANY OF the strikes, like a raid on the MIG airfield at Hoa Lac, were made before dawn by all-weather Intruder Jets, and damage assessment will not be available until photo planes can scan the targets.

The bad weather is due to the shift in the monsoon winds now taking place. By late this month the season will have changed completely, and rains and heavy clouds can be expected to blanket the North daily until next April or May.

Although high American officers are almost universally opposed to any new bombing pause, which they feel would allow the Communists to increase movement of troops and supplies, they admit that if such a bombing pause is made for political reasons, now is the best time from their standpoint.

U.S. officials generally do not expect the North Vietnamese to take up any peace overtures from the South. William P. Bundy, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, said in Los Angeles Wednesday that "there's no sign that they are prepared to move toward peace although we are trying at all times through a host of unpublicized channels as well as public things that are said and done."

It has been estimated that 591 sea otters inhabit the California coast between Cayucos and Monterey.

held up for awhile now," Lindeman said.

The blast on the city's north side could be heard for over a mile away, police said.

About 500 striking steel haulers blocked trucks trying to leave the Youngstown Sheet and Tube plant in Campbell Wednesday and stoned one empty steel truck that tried to leave.

Three cruisers of Campbell policemen rushed to the scene and made the strikers get off company property. Police said the strikers were armed with clubs and bricks.

The haulers had been at a meeting in Youngstown where about 1,000 truckers from Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio were to vote on a proposed strike settlement.

But when they heard that steel trucks were moving out of the Campbell plant, 500 of them rushed to the scene without voting.

Mike Boano, leader of the dissident steel haulers, told a security officer at the plant, Glenn Roberts, to send the trucks out empty. Roberts did not reply, according to witnesses.

Boano said his group had been ready to approve the agreement but that the strike is still on and his men would stay at the Youngstown Sheet and Tube plant.

At Lisbon an unidentified man, one of three in a gray sedan, slashed the left front tire of a Lisbon truckdriver's parked car at 11:40 p. m. Wednesday on E. Lincoln Way.

The car is owned ty Leon Carpenter, 120 Morton St., a driver for Hawthorne Trucking Co. on Route 172 west of town.

Several people leaving the Masonic Temple witnessed the incident on the well - lighted street downtown, but did not realize what had happened until the trio sped east on Lincoln Way ((Route 30).

They told Police Capt. John Varner the eastbound car halted for the Jefferson St. stop light, and a man stepped out and evidently cut the tire of the parked car. They heard air escaping and saw the gray car speed away. They gave police part of the license number, but officers could not find the car.

Police said some local drivers for steel - hauling firms report they have received threatening calls.

Sailor Stabs 11, Jumps Off Navy Destroyer At Sea

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A sailor who stabbed 11 men Wednesday aboard a U.S. Navy destroyer 10 miles off Long Beach and then jumped off the ship was still missing today, the Navy said.

A spokesman said he doubted the body of machinist mate first class Roy A. Sattiewhite of San Diego would be found.

tory there is not one leif to establish that Ericson ever caught a glimpse of American shores.

"In fact, I know that Ericson never got here because I got it straight from the Norse's mouth."

A final proof that it was Columbus, Musmanno said, is the national popularity of spaghetti.

"This selection could never have been the result of whim or arbitrariness," he said. "The spaghetti represents the rigging of the ships of the 'Santa Maria,' the 'Nina' and the 'Pinta'."

"The meatballs are symbols of the anchors of those ships because the original anchors were spheroids so they could be used as cannon balls when it became necessary to fight the Vikings who, after all, were pirates!"

Musmanno, who wrote a book on the subject called "Columbus Was First!", made the remarks in a ceremony on the Monongahela River. A group of college students dressed as Vikings paddled down the river and surrendered all claims of being first.

Sailor Stabs 11, Jumps Off Navy Destroyer At Sea

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A sailor who stabbed 11 men Wednesday aboard a U.S. Navy destroyer 10 miles off Long Beach and then jumped off the ship was still missing today, the Navy said.

A spokesman said he doubted the body of machinist mate first class Roy A. Sattiewhite of San Diego would be found.

None of the 11 sailors stabbed aboard the USS Mullany was seriously injured. Seven were in good condition today at Long Beach Naval Hospital.

Three others were treated and released for duty and one was treated aboard the San Diego-based vessel.

Toastmasters Club Gives Weekly Award

Francis House, president, won the "bull-thrower" award for the week when the East Liverpool Toastmasters Club met Wednesday night at the gas company offices.

Robert Frontz was toastmaster, Norman Bucher had table topics and Ed Gray was chief evaluator. Robert Harris, who gave the sixth speech, was voted the most improved speaker.

Four members, Gray, Bucher, Harris and House, spoke during the past week to parent-teacher groups on behalf of the United Fund.

Members of the Toastmistresses Club will be invited to a session in November. Robert Owen, member, has been announcing home football games at Patterson Field.

The club will meet again next Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at the utility office.

tory there is not one leif to establish that Ericson ever caught a glimpse of American shores.

"In fact, I know that Ericson never got here because I got it straight from the Norse's mouth."

A final proof that it was Columbus, Musmanno said, is the national popularity of spaghetti.

"This selection could never have been the result of whim or arbitrariness," he said. "The spaghetti represents the rigging of the ships of the 'Santa Maria,' the 'Nina' and the 'Pinta'."

"The meatballs are symbols of the anchors of those ships because the original anchors were spheroids so they could be used as cannon balls when it became necessary to fight the Vikings who, after all, were pirates!"

Musmanno, who wrote a book on the subject called "Columbus Was First!", made the remarks in a ceremony on the Monongahela River. A group of college students dressed as Vikings paddled down the river and surrendered all claims of being first.

Forget About Spending Cuts

The Senate vote on the $4.77 billion public works bill shows how interested U.S. senators are in reducing federal spending. The bill was approved 82-3 after a proposal to cut it by $248 million was defeated.

Included in the huge money bill were funds for "pork barrel" projects, the seemingly untouchable domain of legislators. The pork barrel label goes on pet projects for rivers, harbors and flood control.

A great hue and cry has arisen from legislators, mainly representatives, in behalf of reduced federal spending. They would have liked for the President to be head surgeon in a cutting spree, but he declined the scalpel.

If the Senate vote on the public works bill is an indication of future congressional action, everyone better get used to the idea there isn't going to be any cutting.

Since the Senate vote approved the spending of $153 million more than the House-passed bill, a compromise will have to be worked out.

This gives the House a chance to insist on a reduction in the public works bill to set a precedent for congressional slashing on other measures. But don't hold your breath until it happens.

All the talk about economic stability and slowing federal spending in the national interest apparently was just so much political hot air.

Congressmen unwilling to exercise their constitutional right to control government spending when it is out of line have no right to criticize the President's spending policies.

More than that, Congress has sold the American people short. Members of Congress underestimated their constituents. They fell victim to the fear of a voter backlash over a firm stand in trimming expenditures.

They ignored the fact that constituents are aware of the economic crisis hovering over the United States.

In the face of heavy spending, President Johnson's tax hike proposal moves into the must category. It will not cover the national deficit alone, but it is the only thing left to throw at the debt.

Taxpayers are willing to face up to their responsibilities in national crises, but they have the right to expect governmental responsibility in financial matters. That s why they expected spending to be cut to help brace the nation's economy, instead of a government decision to make taxpayers bear the full burden for continued high-level spending.

The American taxpayer is not only being sold short; he is being sold out.

Columbus Day

Today is Columbus Day, set aside to honor the discoverer of the New World.

Much tribute has been paid the famed adventurer. It has taken many forms.

Each new crop of school children continues to be properly awed by the exploits of Columbus.

He has a respected spot in world history.

A statue on the square in Genoa, Italy, his birthplace, gives assurance that his contribution to world exploration and history will not be forgotten with the passing centuries.

Ohio has made doubly sure the explorer's feats will be remembered with proper respect. It is the only state to pay Columbus the singular tribute of naming its capital city after him.

It is deserved praise.

Safety Has Top Priority

A special Navy panel has reported a lag in safety practices aboard aircraft carriers. The investigation was called by the Navy following the August fire aboard the carrier Forrestal, which claimed 131 lives.

The panel's report is not complete and isn't expected to be completed until the end of the month.

But the case for immediate improvements is strong enough to cause the panel to release a list of areas that need attention immediately.

Apparently, many outdated safety practices are based on experiences in World War 11.

Trouble spots include both equipment and performance. The panel has suggested installation of additional firefighting and damage control equipment, changing location of equipment and updated performance manuals for crewmen.

The Navy must be faulted for not keeping pace with the times in terms of safety. It has been a costly oversight.

Now it must move quickly to rectify glaring weaknesses. No one wants another Forrestal tragedy.

Sharpening The Picture

Most of us find that photographs taken of us never seem to do justice to our profile, the actual shape of our figure, the true depth of our smile.

But isn't it strange how others seem to feel that the picture is a good likeness—perhaps a bit stiff, a little fuzzy at the edges—but not bad.

Lindsey Williams, district Rotary Club governor, let loose a few comments about his "picture" of East Liverpool during his visit Tuesday, asserting the city was in need of some stimulation toward improvement, and challenging Rotarians to do something about it.

There is always the tendency to oversimplify community problems and to oversimplify their solutions. This city is not "dead on its feet"—there are too many recent advances to warrant that description, but there can be no doubt that there is a need to make a number of improvements.

WHATEVER problems East Liverpool has rest fundamentally upon the city's below standard economic base; we don't have the tax resources which other cities enjoy for underwriting full municipal services and capital improvements.

The surrounding townships and communities which utilize our city for commercial services are unable to aid us, and many men and women who work in East Liverpool do not reside in the city where they could contribute to the tax base, run for office or vote for public officials. About 49 per cent of the Rotary Club members don't live in the city.

Challenged on "doing something" under these conditions, anyone might wonder, "What can I do? Go out and bring in a new steel mill, build a research center, tear down slum housing, contribute land for a park?"

It would be a start. But most of us will have to take on lesser projects, depending upon the city's nearly completed comprehensive plan to point the way to specific programs, selected areas of activity in which we can help.

MEANWHILE, take a look at this city through the eyes of Mr. Williams, through the eyes of any newcomer, just as you yourself view a town when you first arrive.

You may not be proud of its appearance from every angle, it may lose out in comparison with some other communities, but it's better than it was ten years ago, and is on the threshold of opportunity to significant changes.

There is more to anybody's picture of East Liverpool than meets the eye, and it will be up to the people in the city, in the township, in Rotary and other service clubs, in labor organizations, in youth, social and civic groups to sharpen that focus before many months pass.

By Art Buchwald

As the President's popularity sags more and more, White House staffers are searching for historical precedents to bolster the President's morale. Nothing makes Mr. Johnson happier these days than to hear about another president who was in a worse pickle than he is right now, and White House aides are vying for the honor of bringing him the bad news of other administrations first.

Art Buchwald

"You know, Mr. President, James Madison was in worse trouble than you are."

"Tell me about it."

"Why, when the British burned down Washington and he had to flee with Dolly Madison, his political enemies chortled with glee and he was the laughing stock of the country."

"Good old Jim Madison. What have you got, Marvin?"

"Well, I just heard from a very reliable source that President Polk suffered terrible humiliation during the U.S. - Mexican war. Daniel Webster even wanted to impeach him, and Abe Lincoln, of all people, attacked Polk in Congress. The intellectuals of the time hated the war, and Henry Thoreau wrote an essay on civil disobedience and refused to pay his taxes."

"AH'VE ALWAYS had a warm spot in my heart for Polk. He must have felt the same way about the intellectuals as Ah do."

"Sir, did you know Abe Lincoln was plagued by peace movements that almost wrecked the Civil War?"

"Ah didn't know that, Douglas, but Ah'm glad you found it out."

"They also called him King Lincoln and said the war between the states was a failure. He also had the worst time with the draft."

"Poor Lincoln. Ah certainly know how he must have felt, all alone, being chewed up by his enemies and his so-called friends; doing what was right even though it might be politically wrong; knowing in his heart you can't please all the people all of the time."

"Oh, Mr. President, if the people could only hear you now."

"Never mind that. What did you find out last night, Harry?"

"McKinley was in serious trouble all during the Spanish-American War, but in spite of that he was re-elected to office."

"Ah, just knew you'd come up with McKinley, Harry. Put it on a card so Ah can show it to Billy Graham. Well, Joe?"

"MR. PRESIDENT, I'm happy to announce Woodrow Wilson was one of the most criticized Presidents of his time. Teddy Roosevelt called him a treacherous hypocrite and others said he had a Messiah complex.

"Even though Wilson ran on the slogan, 'he kept us out of war,' he was able to switch without too much trouble."

"Ah get the parallel, Joe. There's a little of Wilson in all of us. Anybody got anything else to add?"

"Mr. President, I haven't had time to check this, but I heard the other day that Millard Fillmore was in so much trouble as President that his party wouldn't renominate him for the office."

"Ah wish you hadn't said that, George."

"Don't worry, Mr. President. If anybody else asks me about it, I'll deny it."

VICTOR RIESEL

Labor Mobilizing For LBJ

WASHINGTON — Those bird watchers who are transfixed by the doves and the hawks and are impressed by the foreign policy polls are overlooking a mighty force whose legions, equipped with every weapon of modern political warfare, will march solidly behind Lyndon Johnson into the next presidential campaign.

Victor Riesel

Leaders of those legions have just issued a call to action which says bluntly that it is America's "obligation" to fight in Vietnam. And that no choice need be made between spending billions for guns, butter or ghettoes because there is enough for all. And that the South Vietnamese are fighting the very same kind of war as that fought by American's early revolutionists.

These words—and a good deal more—are in the official call just issued by the National AFL-CIO headquarters to the American labor movement, to choose delegates to its Seventh Constitutional Convention opening Dec. 7 in Bal Harbour, Fla.

Labor's leaders go all the way with LBJ.

It is the signal to their 14 million followers to mobilize. Hardly insignificant, this. The federation is the most solidly organized force in the land. It has the most futuristic political campaign machinery in the world. One of its lesser efforts, for example, will be a drive to put 100,000 campaign workers into the precincts in Pennsylvania alone.

No doubt the AFL-CIO will be the most cohesive and dependable bloc behind Mr. Johnson next year, what with defections from his policies piling up on the left and right.

IT MAY WELL BE the only united force in his camp by mid-1968. If Vietnam should be the issue in '68, there is no doubt that labor's leaders will be the loyalists of the year. And there will be no variation on this theme. It has gone unreported, for example, that the recent convention of the huge (2 million-member) New York State AFL-CIO adopted a strong pro-Vietnam policy resolution by a vote of almost 1,000 to 12. That's a fairly comfortable margin.

Thus it is across the land; at the Oregon AFL-CIO conclave, the delegates cheered a resolution calling for "bringing to bear whatever power is necessary to prevent a Viet Cong victory."

All this does not insinuate that the labor leaders are just hawks. If anything, the bird watchers from now on will note that the powerful union chiefs are falcons, should there be any room in the aviary.

This can be observed in the unreported unpublished call to the National Convention which is being whipped into a series of resolutions for the 900 delegates who will attend the national gathering. Since all this will make the headlines on Pearl Harbor Day, the call's most urgent words should be put into the record now:

"Beyond the domestic issues there remains the grave problem of the defense of freedom in South Vietnam," says AFL-CIO president George Meany.

"It is testing as never before the calmness, the patience and the good sense of the nation.

"THERE ARE SOME who cry for a wider, 'get it over with' war, regardless of risk. There are others who call for total disengagement, regardless of the impact on freedom's cause. And from both camps . . . rises the charge that there must be a choice between war and social progress; that America cannot afford both at once.

"Both camps are wrong on all counts. In south Vietnam . . . the U.S. is not in search of conquest or even victory in the classic sense. This country is fighting for the principle of self-determination; the principle that any . . . people has the right to decide its own course without outside interference. It was on this principle that the American Revolution was waged; the principle is as valid in the rice paddies and jungles of Vietnam as it was at Bunker Hill and Yorktown.

"The defense of that principle has become an American obligation . . . unavoidable so long as we cherish human freedom."

These words are the labor chiefs' challenge to the lead of the dump-Johnson movement.

DAVID LAWRENCE

RFK And LBJ

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York has apparently mapped out his strategy not only for 1968 but for any political contingency that could affect him in the next five years.

His brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, took the first step in the strategy when he declared in a speech in Des Moines that Americans must re-elect President Johnson because of Mr. Johnson's ability and training to lead the country.

This doesn't mean Bobby Kennedy has given up the idea of getting the vice presidency by persuading President Johnson to make him his running mate in the 1968 election. Mr. Johnson's decision will depend primarily on whether he needs the Kennedy name on the ticket as a means of winning.

Recent public opinion polls have shown the New York senator running ahead of President Johnson for the presidency itself among Democrats, as well as among Republican and independent voters.

BUT EVEN IF the circumstances are such that President Johnson is likely to retain Vice President Humphrey on the ticket, there is every reason, politically, why the New York senator should be asserting himself now as a loyal supporter of President Johnson.

The New York senator has nothing to lose and much to gain by this tactic. In the next several months he can create the impression throughout the country that he is eligible for the vice presidency by reason of his vigorous support of President Johnson.

IF BY NEXT SUMMER THE President's popularity has gone down to the point where he needs not only the endorsement of the Kennedy family but the intensive backing of their followers to help him carry states like New York and Massachusetts, it may be that the exigencies of practical politics will cause Mr. Johnson to indicate behind the scenes that he will leave the vice-presidential nomination up to the convention.

The delegates might then find it expedient to put the New York senator in second place as a vite-getting device.

Politicians are well aware that the Catholic vote in the United States is substantial. The Kennedy forces brought this to the attention of Democratic leaders at the National Convention in Chicago in 1956, when an attempt was made to put Sen. John F. Kennedy on the ticket as vice president.

An elaborate treatise showing the influence of the Catholic vote in many of the states of the Union was handed around to the delegates.

Politicians know that this situation has not changed very much since those years. Some also feel that the strength of Bobby Kennedy in the polls is due in large part to the support of party workers throughout the country who became acquainted with him when he was manager of John F. Kennedy's campaign in 1960.

IT IS, HOWEVER, really the vice presidency that Bobby Kennedy is after in the immediate future. If Mr. Johnson should be reelected with Mr. Kennedy as vice president, the latter would be the logical choice in 1972 for the nomination for the presidency. Or a turn of fate might put him into the White House earlier.

Then his candidacy in 1972 would be a natural development. His brother's speech is a forerunner of what may be heard from the New York senator himself. Edward Kennedy minced no words in advocating re-election of Mr. Johnson. He said:

"There is no Republican on the horizon with the skill, and the training, and the heart to take on the burdens of the presidency in a time of peril, as has been done by Lyndon Johnson. When our president is measured against his opposition, instead of everybody's favorite ideas, the strength of our party comes out."

This speech of outspoken praise, delivered at a dinner in Des Moines for Iowa Democrats, confirms previous statements that Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has not the slightest intention of challenging Mr. Johnson for the presidential nomination in 1968.

From whatever angle it is viewed, Bobby Kennedy has every reason for coming out now in enthusiastic support of President Johnson.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — Lisbon's football team, coached by Bud Bucher, posted its fifth victory in a row by rolling over Sebring, 20-7.

Some 16,000 viewed a Columbus Day parade in downtown East Liverpool, with 27 drum and bugle corps participating.

Alvin W. Smith of East Liverpool was made a first lieutenant in the Air Force.

TEN YEARS AGO — An installation service for the Rev. W. H. Flurkey was held at the Fairview Presbyterian Church in Pughtown.

"Oh, Mr. President, if the people could only hear you now."

"Never mind that. What did you find out last night, Harry?"

"McKinley was in serious trouble all during the Spanish-American War, but in spite of that he was re-elected to office."

"Ah, just knew you'd come up with McKinley, Harry. Put it on a card so Ah can show it to Billy Graham. Well, Joe?"

"MR. PRESIDENT, I'm happy to announce Woodrow Wilson was one of the most criticized Presidents of his time. Teddy Roosevelt called him a treacherous hypocrite and others said he had a Messiah complex.

"Even though Wilson ran on the slogan, 'he kept us out of war,' he was able to switch without too much trouble."

"Ah get the parallel, Joe. There's a little of Wilson in all of us. Anybody got anything else to add?"

"Mr. President, I haven't had time to check this, but I heard the other day that Millard Fillmore was in so much trouble as President that his party wouldn't renominate him for the office."

"Ah wish you hadn't said that, George."

"Don't worry, Mr. President. If anybody else asks me about it, I'll deny it."

VICTOR RIESEL

Labor Mobilizing For LBJ

WASHINGTON — Those bird watchers who are transfixed by the doves and the hawks and are impressed by the foreign policy polls are overlooking a mighty force whose legions, equipped with every weapon of modern political warfare, will march solidly behind Lyndon Johnson into the next presidential campaign.

Victor Riesel

Leaders of those legions have just issued a call to action which says bluntly that it is America's "obligation" to fight in Vietnam. And that no choice need be made between spending billions for guns, butter or ghettoes because there is enough for all. And that the South Vietnamese are fighting the very same kind of war as that fought by American's early revolutionists.

These words—and a good deal more—are in the official call just issued by the National AFL-CIO headquarters to the American labor movement, to choose delegates to its Seventh Constitutional Convention opening Dec. 7 in Bal Harbour, Fla.

Labor's leaders go all the way with LBJ.

It is the signal to their 14 million followers to mobilize. Hardly insignificant, this. The federation is the most solidly organized force in the land. It has the most futuristic political campaign machinery in the world. One of its lesser efforts, for example, will be a drive to put 100,000 campaign workers into the precincts in Pennsylvania alone.

No doubt the AFL-CIO will be the most cohesive and dependable bloc behind Mr. Johnson next year, what with defections from his policies piling up on the left and right.

IT MAY WELL BE the only united force in his camp by mid-1968. If Vietnam should be the issue in '68, there is no doubt that labor's leaders will be the loyalists of the year. And there will be no variation on this theme. It has gone unreported, for example, that the recent convention of the huge (2 million-member) New York State AFL-CIO adopted a strong pro-Vietnam policy resolution by a vote of almost 1,000 to 12. That's a fairly comfortable margin.

Thus it is across the land; at the Oregon AFL-CIO conclave, the delegates cheered a resolution calling for "bringing to bear whatever power is necessary to prevent a Viet Cong victory."

All this does not insinuate that the labor leaders are just hawks. If anything, the bird watchers from now on will note that the powerful union chiefs are falcons, should there be any room in the aviary.

This can be observed in the unreported unpublished call to the National Convention which is being whipped into a series of resolutions for the 900 delegates who will attend the national gathering. Since all this will make the headlines on Pearl Harbor Day, the call's most urgent words should be put into the record now:

"Beyond the domestic issues there remains the grave problem of the defense of freedom in South Vietnam," says AFL-CIO president George Meany.

"It is testing as never before the calmness, the patience and the good sense of the nation.

"THERE ARE SOME who cry for a wider, 'get it over with' war, regardless of risk. There are others who call for total disengagement, regardless of the impact on freedom's cause. And from both camps . . . rises the charge that there must be a choice between war and social progress; that America cannot afford both at once.

"Both camps are wrong on all counts. In south Vietnam . . . the U.S. is not in search of conquest or even victory in the classic sense. This country is fighting for the principle of self-determination; the principle that any . . . people has the right to decide its own course without outside interference. It was on this principle that the American Revolution was waged; the principle is as valid in the rice paddies and jungles of Vietnam as it was at Bunker Hill and Yorktown.

"The defense of that principle has become an American obligation . . . unavoidable so long as we cherish human freedom."

These words are the labor chiefs' challenge to the lead of the dump-Johnson movement.

DAVID LAWRENCE

RFK And LBJ

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York has apparently mapped out his strategy not only for 1968 but for any political contingency that could affect him in the next five years.

His brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, took the first step in the strategy when he declared in a speech in Des Moines that Americans must re-elect President Johnson because of Mr. Johnson's ability and training to lead the country.

This doesn't mean Bobby Kennedy has given up the idea of getting the vice presidency by persuading President Johnson to make him his running mate in the 1968 election. Mr. Johnson's decision will depend primarily on whether he needs the Kennedy name on the ticket as a means of winning.

Recent public opinion polls have shown the New York senator running ahead of President Johnson for the presidency itself among Democrats, as well as among Republican and independent voters.

BUT EVEN IF the circumstances are such that President Johnson is likely to retain Vice President Humphrey on the ticket, there is every reason, politically, why the New York senator should be asserting himself now as a loyal supporter of President Johnson.

The New York senator has nothing to lose and much to gain by this tactic. In the next several months he can create the impression throughout the country that he is eligible for the vice presidency by reason of his vigorous support of President Johnson.

IF BY NEXT SUMMER THE President's popularity has gone down to the point where he needs not only the endorsement of the Kennedy family but the intensive backing of their followers to help him carry states like New York and Massachusetts, it may be that the exigencies of practical politics will cause Mr. Johnson to indicate behind the scenes that he will leave the vice-presidential nomination up to the convention.

The delegates might then find it expedient to put the New York senator in second place as a vite-getting device.

Politicians are well aware that the Catholic vote in the United States is substantial. The Kennedy forces brought this to the attention of Democratic leaders at the National Convention in Chicago in 1956, when an attempt was made to put Sen. John F. Kennedy on the ticket as vice president.

An elaborate treatise showing the influence of the Catholic vote in many of the states of the Union was handed around to the delegates.

Politicians know that this situation has not changed very much since those years. Some also feel that the strength of Bobby Kennedy in the polls is due in large part to the support of party workers throughout the country who became acquainted with him when he was manager of John F. Kennedy's campaign in 1960.

IT IS, HOWEVER, really the vice presidency that Bobby Kennedy is after in the immediate future. If Mr. Johnson should be reelected with Mr. Kennedy as vice president, the latter would be the logical choice in 1972 for the nomination for the presidency. Or a turn of fate might put him into the White House earlier.

Then his candidacy in 1972 would be a natural development. His brother's speech is a forerunner of what may be heard from the New York senator himself. Edward Kennedy minced no words in advocating re-election of Mr. Johnson. He said:

"There is no Republican on the horizon with the skill, and the training, and the heart to take on the burdens of the presidency in a time of peril, as has been done by Lyndon Johnson. When our president is measured against his opposition, instead of everybody's favorite ideas, the strength of our party comes out."

This speech of outspoken praise, delivered at a dinner in Des Moines for Iowa Democrats, confirms previous statements that Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has not the slightest intention of challenging Mr. Johnson for the presidential nomination in 1968.

From whatever angle it is viewed, Bobby Kennedy has every reason for coming out now in enthusiastic support of President Johnson.

Guevara Death Darkens Latin Guerrilla Prospect

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Leftists in the Mexican capital concede that the report of Ernesto Che Guevara's death is a "discouraging blow" to the hemisphere's guerrilla movements. But they say the revolutions will continue until the social and economic ills that produce them are eradicated.

"Ideas do not die with the man," said Mario Menendez, editor of the leftist magazine Sucesos. "Many more will pick up the fight for national liberation. It will be intensified."

Some Mexican leftists, who as advocates of their country's noninterventionist foreign policy are opposed to "exported revolutions," said Guevara's death merely removed "the scapegoat to whom all revolutionary movements are attributed."

"Latin American home-grown revolutions will go on and on," one said.

This view coincided with the opinions of many Latin American moderate leftist political leaders interviewed last summer in connection with the Bolivian uprising.

The consensus was that regardless of what happened to Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro and his ambition to father revolutions throughout Latin America, armed revolts will continue until social and economic ills are eliminated.

However, even before Guevara was reported killed by Bolivian troops early this week, some captured Castroite guerrillas already were grim about chances of these revolutions succeeding.

They said the withdrawal of financial and organizational support from the pro-Moscow parties, now advocating a peaceful revolutionary line, was a damaging blow. And they said most of the conditions that made the Cuban revolt successful do not exist in most Latin American countries.

Among those regarding Guevara's death as a setback to Castroite subversion, some also considered it a blow to Red China's brand of international communism. These say that Guevara in leaving Cuba, had gone beyond regional or local Marxist-Leninist objectives.

Among many who knew Guevara personally in Havana and Mexico, where he and Castro prepared their successful invasion of Cuba 11 years ago, some skepticism remained that the man killed in Bolivia really was Guevara.

Some Cuban exiles claim that Castro's government dares not refute the Bolivian version because it provides a cover for the assassination of Guevara which they claim occurred in Cuba at Varadero Beach in April, 1965, following a policy argument with Castro and Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos.

Four Jailed In Shooting State Officer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Four East Side men accused of two motel robberies and shooting a state highway patrolman are in Summit County Jail at Akron charged with armed robbery and shooting with intent to kill.

Two of the men were taken into custody Wednesday morning a few hours after a stolen car had been found abandoned near the thickley wooded Highland Park Cemetery in Shaker Heights.

The other two were captured Wednesday afternoon.

About 100 policemen using helicopters, horses and a dog had combed the cemetery and adjoining Highland Park golf course in search of the men.

Captured and later transferred to Akron from Shaker Heights were:

Robert W. Barno, 29; Alva Campbell, 19; Alfonzo Stubbs, 20, and John Henry Lowery, 23, alias "Blind."

Summit County prosecutor James V. Barbuto said ballistics tests would be made to determine which one of the four shot and wounded highway patrolman Charles Toth, 38, of Newton Falls. Toth was reported in satisfactory condition in St. Thomas Hospital at Akron with a wound in the thigh.

Police said Lowery led them to a spot where the gun presumably used in the shooting and a wallet were found.

The wall belonged to Fred Crutchfield, the night clerk on duty when the Holiday Inn at the intersection of Interstate 71 and Ohio 18 in Medina County was robbed early Wednesday. Shortly after that holdup, four men robbed the Holiday Inn on U.S. 21 in West Richfield and took an estimated $500.

Highway patrolman E. C. Dean, having been alerted by a broadcast from the Medina post, pulled into the parking lot of the inn at West Richfield as the robbers were leaving in their car.

Toth was shot as he was walking to the car. The bullet struck his thick leather belt and was deflected downward into his thigh.

Stubbs was apprehended about 45 minutes later while seated in a car in a driveway on Farnsleigh Road. About an hour after Stubbs was taken into custody, Campbell surrendered to Capt. Gus Trajbal of the Summit County Sheriff's Department.

Firm Schedules Final Touches In Surfacing Work

The Tri - State Asphalt Corp. of Martins Ferry, contractor, today was putting the finishing touches on an East Liverpool blacktop resurfacing project that got under way 11 days ago.

Its crews will work today on the municipal metered parking lot on the northwest corner of 3rd and Market Sts., virtually winding up the contract. The metered lot immediately to the west of City Hall and another across W. 6th St. from the municipal building was resurfaced. Wednesday in the final phases of the program.

The lot on the north side of W. 6th St. still was closed this morning pending return of parking meters that were removed for the surfacing, along with installation of a new guardrail to separate the tract from the adjoining buildings to the east.

The work got under way Oct. 2. Long stretches of E. and W. 5th and 6th Sts. were resurfaced under an Ohio Highway Department contract. Shorter segments of Washington St., Market St. and Jackson St. were improved at the city's expense. A short stretch of Crook Alley also was resurfaced, but it was not covered by the city contract.

Pennsylvania Prepares For Cigarette Tax Boost

HARRISBURG Pa. — The Department of Revenue took steps today to implement a 5-cent increase in the cigarette tax, even before the bill had been signed into law by Gov. Shafer.

The governor planned to put his signature on the legislation Monday. The department had sought a delay of five days to inform cigarette wholesalers and retailers of the increase.

Ronald Regar, director of the Bureau of Cigarette and Beverage Taxes, said letters were sent to 330 cigarette stamping agencies (wholesalers) and 45,000 retail outlets.

The bureau reached an agreement with vending machine operators to pay the tax on 60 per cent of the cigarettes they normally place in their machines. In the meantime, the operators will adjust machines so that the extra nickel is added to the price.

Beginning Monday morning, the price of cigarettes to the consumer will go up 5 cents, giving Pennsylvania a total 13-cent state tax, second highest in the nation. New York City has a 14-cent tax.

Meanwhile, Senate Democrats, questioning constitutionality of the passage of the increase, hinted strongly that the administration - sponsored legislation would wind up in the courts.

"I suspect there will be a taxpayers' suit," said Senate Minority Leader Ernest P. Kline, D-Beaver. "I am sure the cigarette people will object."

The Democrats were marking time until the governor actually signed the bill into law. There was some speculation a temporary injunction might be sought to keep the tax from being collected.

Republicans considered the increase a must for the General Assembly to enact what they consider key appropriations measures.

Armed with an opinion from Atty. Gen. William C. Sennett, the GOP abandoned tradition Tuesday and passed the bill with 25 votes, rather than 26, which has been considered the number needed to enact legislation.

If Air War Continues

Navy Pilots Face Extra Combat Tour In Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some Navy pilots may have to serve as many as three combat tours in the Vietnam war, sources say.

They forecast this possibility if the air war against North Vietnam continues unabated for the next 14 to 18 months.

The problem stems from a tight supply of pilots—a problem aggravated by a growing tendency of younger fliers to resign from the service after they have fulfilled their obligations.

Congress has been told that lengthy and repeated family separations resulting from increased naval operations have accelerated the trend.

The Pentagon's civilian leadership steadfastly denies there is any pilot shortage, but this is disputed by the Senate preparedness subcommittee and service sources.

The Air Force and the Army also are feeling the pinch.

Gen. John P. McConnell, Air Force chief of staff, warned a group of officers' wives recently that their husbands may have to return to Vietnam for second tours by the end of 1969.

The Air Force has tried to hold to a policy of limiting a pilot to a single tour of 100 missions against North Vietnam, where air defenses are becoming tougher, or one year in South Vietnam, where ground fire is negligible.

The Army attempts to give a man two years away from Vietnam before sending him back for a second tour. But it has had to return some helicopter pilots sooner than that.

In the case of the Navy, pilots operating aboard carriers in the Gulf of Tonkin normally spend about seven to nine months with their ship on station before being rotated out of the war zone.

This has meant, generally, that Navy carrier pilots have flown 100 or so missions during this time.

A second tour of seven to nine months has not been uncommon for Navy carrier pilots, and now the sources raise the prospect of a third tour.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some Navy pilots may have to serve as many as three combat tours in the Vietnam war, sources say.

They forecast this possibility if the air war against North Vietnam continues unabated for the next 14 to 18 months.

The problem stems from a tight supply of pilots—a problem aggravated by a growing tendency of younger fliers to resign from the service after they have fulfilled their obligations.

Congress has been told that lengthy and repeated family separations resulting from increased naval operations have accelerated the trend.

The Pentagon's civilian leadership steadfastly denies there is any pilot shortage, but this is disputed by the Senate preparedness subcommittee and service sources.

The Air Force and the Army also are feeling the pinch.

Gen. John P. McConnell, Air Force chief of staff, warned a group of officers' wives recently that their husbands may have to return to Vietnam for second tours by the end of 1969.

The Air Force has tried to hold to a policy of limiting a pilot to a single tour of 100 missions against North Vietnam, where air defenses are becoming tougher, or one year in South Vietnam, where ground fire is negligible.

The Army attempts to give a man two years away from Vietnam before sending him back for a second tour. But it has had to return some helicopter pilots sooner than that.

In the case of the Navy, pilots operating aboard carriers in the Gulf of Tonkin normally spend about seven to nine months with their ship on station before being rotated out of the war zone.

This has meant, generally, that Navy carrier pilots have flown 100 or so missions during this time.

A second tour of seven to nine months has not been uncommon for Navy carrier pilots, and now the sources raise the prospect of a third tour.

Newlyweds Are Residing In Columbiana After Rites

Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Dustman have returned from a honeymoon in Pennsylvania and are residing in Columbiana following their marriage Sept. 23 at 7:30 p.m. in the Grace United Presbyterian Church.

The bride was Miss Doris Arlena Christen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laird John Christen of 733 Bradshaw Ave. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Beulah Dustman of 501 16th St., Wellsville, and the late Albert M. Dustman.

The Rev. Edward John Phinn officiated for the double - ring ceremony before an altar background of white mums, palms, ferns and candelabra. Satin bows marked the family pews.

Mrs. Martha White presented a half - hour recital of organ music. Wayne Christen, cousin of the bride, sang "The Lord's Prayer."

—:—

GIVEN IN marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of rose point lace designed with a basque bodice and long, pointed sleeves. The Sabrina neckline was embroidered with sequins. The bouffant skirt fell to a two tier hemline, embroidered with sequins, and featured a chapel train.

Her veil of silk illusion held by a tiara of pearls and rhinestones was borrowed from her cousin, Mrs. Illa Lawrence. She carried a cascade of white roses and ivy tied with satin streamers.

In observing the traditions, she wore the blue garter, a gift of her flower girl, Margaret Arlena Lawrence, and carried a sixpence in her shoe, belonging to her great grandfather, the late John A. Herbert.

Mrs. Ann Christen, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor and appeared in gold. Mrs. Illa Lawrence and Miss Jacqueline Eckles, cousins of the bride, were bridesmaids and wore green.

Their dresses were fashioned with scoop necklines and short sleeves. The lace Empire style sheaths were worn under bouffant chiffon for the "cage" effect. Their headpieces were double bows of chiffon and theater veils. They carried cascade bouquets of yellow mums and gold pompons tied with gold color streamers.

The flower girl wore a floor-length gown of rose point lace made by her grandmother, Mrs. Jacob Goempel. It was styled identically to that of the bride. A crown of white flowers held her veil and she carried a basket of white flowers.

Robert John Christen Jr., nephew of the bride, was ringbearer. He presented his aunt with her bride's book.

James Eakin of Franklin, Pa., served as best man. Ushers were Henry Nemenz of North Lima; Robert J. Christen, brother of the bride; Anthony Pivik of Chestwick, Pa., and Robert S. Borden of Springfield.

The mother of the bride chose a beige dress and tan coat, knit ensemble and the bridegroom's mother a mint green brocade suit. Bronze mum corsages complemented their attire.

A RECEPTION for 450 followed in the social rooms, where the buffet table was centered with a five - tier cake. White maline, wedding bells and crystal appointments completed the table setting.

Aides were Mrs. ArLena Goempel, aunt of the bride; Mrs. Jan Goempel, her cousin, Mrs. Joyce Miller, Mrs. Marilyn Chamberlain and Mrs. Carol Dick.

For traveling, the bride wore a three - piece blue knit suit.

The bride received her bachelor of science degree in education in 1967 from Kent State University and teaches special education at Westgate School. She is taking graduate work at Kent.

The bridegroom is a 1961 graduate of Mt. Union College, where he was affiliated with Sigma Nu fraternity. He is employed as a social worker by Mahoning County.

The mother of the bridegroom was hostess for the rehearsal dinner party at the Inn Town Motel.

The bride was feted with prenuptial showers by her attendants and her relatives.

Birth Control Answer Urged At Catholic Laymen's Parley

VATICAN CITY (AP) — An Indian delegate, interrupted repeatedly by applause, called on a meeting of 2,500 prominent Roman Catholic laymen today "to bring forth something substantial" on the question of birth control.

The issue was omitted from the agenda of the church's synod of bishops, now holding its first meeting at the Vatican.

"We Christians, especially Catholics, want to know what practical answers we can give to a husband and wife who have two or three children and want to stop," said S. Santiago, the Indian vice president of the International Conference of Catholic Rural Development.

It was the first mention of birth control at the third World Congress of the Lay Apostolate, which opened Wednesday, but the issue is expected to be one of the main preoccupations of the week-long conference.

In a panel on "Man Today," Santiago called on the church hierarchy to "recommend measures which can limit the size of a family."

British economist Barbara Ward urged the laymen from 103 countries to give their governments "no peace" until they do more to help the developing nations.

She told delegates they should apply the Christian principle of sharing on the international level.

U.S. astronaut James McDivitt enumerated the benefits of a space program, but lamented that social and economic development was not keeping pace with scientific and technological progress.

Other speakers urged the adoption of a strong stand against racial discrimination and called on Catholics to do more in everyday life to promote equality.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I were shocked to pick up our newspaper and read that our 19-year-old son is engaged to marry a girl he has been going steady with for seven months. We liked the girl until she did this rotten thing. Now my husband and I are not sure we will attend the wedding.

I have a feeling the girl hooked our boy by putting the announcement in the paper. He never told us he was anxious to get married and, furthermore, he has three years of college ahead of him.

Don't newspapers have the responsibility of checking with both sets of parents to learn if they have given their consent to the marriage? Can a girl walk in off the street, hand the editor her picture and say she's engaged and that's all there is to it? We await your reply. — S.O.S.

Dear S.O.S.: I do not know of a newspaper in the world that checks out engagement announcements to learn if the parents have given their consent. And why should they?

Your problem, dear friend, is not with the newspaper but with your son. It sounds as if the lines of communication have been closed for a long time.

Never Too Old

Dear Ann: Although I'm nearly 70 years old I read your column every day and I learn from it. Last week you printed a response to a woman who signed herself "Against Dirt." She was criticizing you for being so frank.

You told her that girls need correct information so they will know how to deal with "eight-handed idiots." You pointed out that girls who do not know the score get into serious trouble.

Please tell me, Ann, what's an "eight-handed idiot"? — DYING OF CURIOSITY.

Dear Curiosity: An eight-handed idiot is a guy whose two hands cover so much mileage that a girl could swear he has six extra.

Some Teacher

Dear Ann: Regarding the woman in the supermarket who stole a candy bar and slipped it into her young son's pocket: When I read such things it makes me sick. Don't these people realize what they are doing?

And what about the mothers who tell their youngsters to lie about their age so they can ride on the bus free or get into a movie for half price?

My next-door neighbor used to tell her children to say she wasn't home when certain people came to call. She'd hide in the back closet and send the kids to the front door to lie for her. I was not surprised when her two sons became involved in a petty theft ring and were sent to a reformatory.

How can parents expect their children to grow up to be honorable citizens when they teach them to be dishonest? Please put this straight to American mothers and fathers and let them answer in their hearts. — QUO VADIS.

Dear Quo: I could not put it any straighter than you did. And I thank you from the bottom of MY heart. Your letter contains a vital message to all parents everywhere. I wish it could be posted in foot-high letters and lit up in neon lights from coast to coast.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dahlia Society Gets Briefing On Care Of Plants

The care of house plants and winter protection of roses was discussed when the East Liverpool Floral and Dahlia Society met Monday night in the Potters Savings and Loan Co. annex.

William Haugh, president, gave a brief review of the dahlia show.

The discussion, conducted by J. T. Eccleston and Leo Lawrence, also included the correct procedure for planting of spring bulbs, digging and storing of dahlia tubers, digging and care of gladioli bulbs, the care of geraniums, cannas and Peruvian daffodils during the winter.

Lawrence discussed a Youngstown Horticultural Garden Show held Sept. 30 in the Youngstown Garden Center. He and Eccleston were judges.

A dahlia show, with 35 entries, was held following the meeting. Charles Glover and Clark McCoy were judges. Root dahlias, donated by Haugh, were won by Lawarence, Mrs. Howard Connor and Mrs. Clarence Green.

Haugh also announced a Midwest Dahlia Conference for 1968 will be held in the South Hill Village Mall Sept. 13-15.

Out - of - town members were Mr. and Mrs. William Koenig, Sam Holt and Harry Nordstrom, all of Pittsburgh, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Sigle of Canfield and Clarence Wasser of Austintown.

Refreshments were served by Glover, McCoy and Fred Leughmyer.

The Board of Directors will meet with Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Hay of the Bell School Rd. Oct. 21 at 8 p. m. The society will meet Nov. 13 at 8 p.m.

The "S" for the middle name of Harry S. Truman does not stand for anything. It is said to have been used because both of his grandfathers had names beginning with that letter.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I were shocked to pick up our newspaper and read that our 19-year-old son is engaged to marry a girl he has been going steady with for seven months. We liked the girl until she did this rotten thing. Now my husband and I are not sure we will attend the wedding.

I have a feeling the girl hooked our boy by putting the announcement in the paper. He never told us he was anxious to get married and, furthermore, he has three years of college ahead of him.

Don't newspapers have the responsibility of checking with both sets of parents to learn if they have given their consent to the marriage? Can a girl walk in off the street, hand the editor her picture and say she's engaged and that's all there is to it? We await your reply. — S.O.S.

Dear S.O.S.: I do not know of a newspaper in the world that checks out engagement announcements to learn if the parents have given their consent. And why should they?

Your problem, dear friend, is not with the newspaper but with your son. It sounds as if the lines of communication have been closed for a long time.

Never Too Old

Dear Ann: Although I'm nearly 70 years old I read your column every day and I learn from it. Last week you printed a response to a woman who signed herself "Against Dirt." She was criticizing you for being so frank.

You told her that girls need correct information so they will know how to deal with "eight-handed idiots." You pointed out that girls who do not know the score get into serious trouble.

Please tell me, Ann, what's an "eight-handed idiot"? — DYING OF CURIOSITY.

Dear Curiosity: An eight-handed idiot is a guy whose two hands cover so much mileage that a girl could swear he has six extra.

Some Teacher

Dear Ann: Regarding the woman in the supermarket who stole a candy bar and slipped it into her young son's pocket: When I read such things it makes me sick. Don't these people realize what they are doing?

And what about the mothers who tell their youngsters to lie about their age so they can ride on the bus free or get into a movie for half price?

My next-door neighbor used to tell her children to say she wasn't home when certain people came to call. She'd hide in the back closet and send the kids to the front door to lie for her. I was not surprised when her two sons became involved in a petty theft ring and were sent to a reformatory.

How can parents expect their children to grow up to be honorable citizens when they teach them to be dishonest? Please put this straight to American mothers and fathers and let them answer in their hearts. — QUO VADIS.

Dear Quo: I could not put it any straighter than you did. And I thank you from the bottom of MY heart. Your letter contains a vital message to all parents everywhere. I wish it could be posted in foot-high letters and lit up in neon lights from coast to coast.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dahlia Society Gets Briefing On Care Of Plants

The care of house plants and winter protection of roses was discussed when the East Liverpool Floral and Dahlia Society met Monday night in the Potters Savings and Loan Co. annex.

William Haugh, president, gave a brief review of the dahlia show.

The discussion, conducted by J. T. Eccleston and Leo Lawrence, also included the correct procedure for planting of spring bulbs, digging and storing of dahlia tubers, digging and care of gladioli bulbs, the care of geraniums, cannas and Peruvian daffodils during the winter.

Lawrence discussed a Youngstown Horticultural Garden Show held Sept. 30 in the Youngstown Garden Center. He and Eccleston were judges.

A dahlia show, with 35 entries, was held following the meeting. Charles Glover and Clark McCoy were judges. Root dahlias, donated by Haugh, were won by Lawarence, Mrs. Howard Connor and Mrs. Clarence Green.

Haugh also announced a Midwest Dahlia Conference for 1968 will be held in the South Hill Village Mall Sept. 13-15.

Out - of - town members were Mr. and Mrs. William Koenig, Sam Holt and Harry Nordstrom, all of Pittsburgh, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Sigle of Canfield and Clarence Wasser of Austintown.

Refreshments were served by Glover, McCoy and Fred Leughmyer.

The Board of Directors will meet with Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Hay of the Bell School Rd. Oct. 21 at 8 p. m. The society will meet Nov. 13 at 8 p.m.

The "S" for the middle name of Harry S. Truman does not stand for anything. It is said to have been used because both of his grandfathers had names beginning with that letter.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

DEAR HELOISE: A while back you had a hint about putting plastic wrap in a vase to hold an arrangement of short-stem flowers. It sure gives a crystal vase an icy appearance.

I learned something else when usuing it in a beautiful old cut glass bowl for a centerpiece. If I put crushed ice cubes in the crushed plastic, it seemed to keep my cut flowers fresh much longer!

Am I right?

MRS. WM. PAYNE.

I think you are, honey. Remember, when you walk into any florist you usually find their cut flowers in a refrigerated vault. I'm sure florists have a good reason for doing that.

After checking with the National Flower Association, I learned that the reason for these cold vaults is to keep the buds from opening so fast and to slow down their ordinary process of blooming.

Here's another little tidbit that one of the big shops gave me.

If you have enough room in your refrigerator to put your centerpiece or flowers after a party, for goodness sakes do so! This will keep 'em from opening further so you can reuse them the next few days or so. After all who sees the flowers while we sleep?

You came up with a brand new cookie with the idea of putting ice cubes in plastic wrap before tucking the wrap into your centerpiece or bud vase.

May the good Lord bless you. We think you're just the greatest . . .

HELOISE.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE: I thought I'd popped my cork when I caught myself spraying deodorant on my hair.

But a couple of weeks later I knew it for sure — when I coated my underarms with hair spray!

"SPRAY HAPPY".

DEAR HELOISE: I read where someone put a notebook ring over the regular garment hook in the car so it would hold more coat hangers.

Well, I use shower curtain rings for that purpose and find they work much better.

MRS. FRANK SCHAR.

DEAR HELOISE: I have a problem. I have a heavy gold chenille bedspread that I cannot use because it sheds something terrible.

What can I do to it?

MRS. V. CHARNIER.

Come on, gals, what's the best way you've ever really found? Pick up that little ole pencil and let us know. Just address your card or letter to Heloise in care of this paper.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: After opening a plastic package of nuts or other food, I fold the end of the package over and fasten it with a metal clip like those on clipboards.

These clips are stronger and broader than clothespins, and keep the package airtight until further use.

BERTHA DIRKEE.

DEAR HELOISE: I like to sew and often buy patterns and material long before I'm ready to use them.

To store my collection of projects, I bought a large plastic trash can with a cover.

I wrap each length of material in a package, and include the pattern, and notions. Then I mark the package "dress," "skirt," etc., and put them all in the can with a few moth balls for extra protection.

Now it's easy to select my next sewing project and storage is no problem.

MARY.

Jaycees Need Questions To Set Up Forum

The East Liverpool Jaycees today announced nearly all arrangements have been made for a "town house" meeting for candidates for Board of Education, but pointed out the response has been "poor" from the public.

Interested persons are asked to submit questions in writing to be presented the candidates at the forum Oct. 24 at 7:30 p. m. at Westgate Auditorium.

Al Fricano, chairman, said none has been received to date. "The program cannot be a success unless the public shows enough interest to participate," Fricano pointed out.

Questions sent will be presented the candidates through a moderator. No questions will be permitted from the floor.

Queries to the candidates, or individual candidate, can be mailed to the Jaycees, P. O. Box 723.

There are nine candidates for three posts on the board.

Bond Issue Seen Highways 'Must' In West Virginia

CHARLESTON (AP) — The Legislature's Joint Committee on Government and Finance was told Tuesday West Virginia must pass a $300 million road bond issue next year.

"You just can't avoid a bond issue," reported B. H. Lindman, consulting engineer hired by the committee to study highway financing in the state.

Lindman said West Virginia is in a financial bind because it must have approximately $285 million to build 430 miles of Appalachan highway.

In addition to the Appalachian spending, Lindman said all states will start a new regular federal aid highway program in 1971 and that it will be stepped up gradually.

The state now is spending $19.8 million a year in regular federal aid and this will have to be stepped up to $27 million in 1971 and to $66 million in 1975, he declared.

Lindman proposed an increase in highway user taxes early next year to help pay interest on the bonds. Such taxes are levied on motor vehicle fuel and license plates.

He added that money from the state's general revenue fund would also be needed to service the new bond issue should it be approved by the voters.

Wellsville Teachers 'Jennings Scholars'

Two Wellsville teachers are among those selected as Jennings Scholars for the coming school term.

They are Mrs. Ruthella Kerr, a junior high math instructor, and Miss Ruth Irwin, Senior English teacher.

They will attend a series of lectures at Kent State University as guests of the Martha Holden Jennings Foundation of Cleveland.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Homemaker Joins Weight-Watchers

What is the toughest thing about dieting? "The 20 years it took me to really decide to reduce," a homemaker commented.

Ida Jean Kain

"If this is your plight, take heart from the heroine in today's story.

"It took me 20 years to make up my mind to buckle down and reduce. Oh, I would start a diet, and stick with it two or three days, sometimes even for a week. Then back I'd go to candy, cake and ice cream. When I would start a diet, friends would say to eat and be merry. That's all the encouragement I needed.

"One day I decided to join the Weight - Watchers Group in Philadelphia. It was no bed of roses to start with! But there are so many people who are fat and trying to lose, that I decided I would, too. I go to the meetings once a week.

"I WAS 200 pounds when I started. Last Easter I wore a 24½ dress size. Now I am wearing a size-18 dress, and I weigh 157 pounds. . .a loss of 43 pounds. I feel so much better. I put on my last years winter coat, looked in the mirror and asked myself, 'Was I really that fat?' I couldn't believe it. That coat swims on me.

"Some people who knew me when I was fat, now that I am thinner say they liked me the other way. But I don't care what they say, I am sticking to my new pattern of eating. I feel ever so much better.

"When I go to friends 'houses for dinner, I eat well, but I am careful. Not long ago I went to my son-in-law's 50th birthday party. I had a fine slice of roast beef (no gravy), a salad, pickles, a vegetable and coffee. I skipped the cake, ice cream and nuts.

"So, you see, while it was hard at first, now I am glad I made up my mind. I get weighed once a week. I thank God for my new lower weight and improved health. With His help I will reach my right weight. If you put this in your column, Ida Jean, it will help other fat people to get started toward their right weight," she concluded.

I BELIEVE there is a Weight - Watchers Group in most cities. It is helpful to slim down with others. We thank this dieter for sharing. How right she is about friends. They often rally round to discourage a dieter.

Dieters, as long as your doctor O.K's your progress, disregard unfavorable comments.

To this intrepid homemaker: Why not add a daily walk to your program? You will find that the toning effect of exercise produces beautiful results.

Outlook Brighter At Wheeling Steel

WHEELING (AP) — Wheeling Steel Corp. president Donald C. Duvall says his company has reversed a financial downward trend and is on the way to economic revival.

Duvall, speaking before a group of Wheeling civic clubs, said, "we think our financial performance touched bottom in June and July, although Wheeling Steel is not yet operating in the black."

Duvall said the company had reduced its accounts payable from $32 million last December to less than $12 million now.

"Each month the red ink. . . is losing more and more of its intensity," he noted.

Plans to construct a new slab mill, new soaking pits and an 80-inch cold steel mill have been abandoned, Duvall said. He explained the company has all the equipment needed "to reach the state of profitability."

"One day I decided to join the Weight - Watchers Group in Philadelphia. It was no bed of roses to start with! But there are so many people who are fat and trying to lose, that I decided I would, too. I go to the meetings once a week.

"I WAS 200 pounds when I started. Last Easter I wore a 26½ dress size. Now I am wearing a size-18 dress, and I weigh 157 pounds. . .a loss of 43 pounds. I feel so much better. I put on my last years winter coat, looked in the mirror and asked myself, 'Was I really that fat?' I couldn't believe it. That coat swims on me.

"Some people who knew me when I was fat, now that I am thinner say they liked me the other way. But I don't care what they say, I am sticking to my new pattern of eating. I feel ever so much better.

"When I go to friends 'houses for dinner, I eat well, but I am careful. Not long ago I went to my son-in-law's 50th birthday party. I had a fine slice of roast beef (no gravy), a salad, pickles, a vegetable and coffee. I skipped the cake, ice cream and nuts.

"So, you see, while it was hard at first, now I am glad I made up my mind. I get weighed once a week. I thank God for my new lower weight and improved health. With His help I will reach my right weight. If you put this in your column, Ida Jean, it will help other fat people to get started toward their right weight," she concluded.

I BELIEVE there is a Weight - Watchers Group in most cities. It is helpful to slim down with others. We thank this dieter for sharing. How right she is about friends. They often rally round to discourage a dieter.

Dieters, as long as your doctor O.K's your progress, disregard unfavorable comments.

To this intrepid homemaker: Why not add a daily walk to your program? You will find that the toning effect of exercise produces beautiful results.

Outlook Brighter At Wheeling Steel

WHEELING (AP) — Wheeling Steel Corp. president Donald C. Duvall says his company has reversed a financial downward trend and is on the way to economic revival.

Duvall, speaking before a group of Wheeling civic clubs, said, "we think our financial performance touched bottom in June and July, although Wheeling Steel is not yet operating in the black."

Duvall said the company had reduced its accounts payable from $32 million last December to less than $12 million now.

"Each month the red ink. . . is losing more and more of its intensity," he noted.

Plans to construct a new slab mill, new soaking pits and an 80-inch cold steel mill have been abandoned, Duvall said. He explained the company has all the equipment needed "to reach the state of profitability."

Shafer Signs 'Rights' Bills

HARRISBURG, Pa. — Four bills of a six-bill civil rights package have been signed into law by Gov. Shafer.

Shafer said the bills were "another step along the road to true equality for all men," adding they were not merely emergency measures to preclude racial disturbances, but perennail achievements.

He expressed regret the two other bills, covering fair housing and employment, were still in a joint House-Senate conference committee. He said he hoped the committee would release them soon.

Signed were bills to:

— Require the courts to issue rulings on court injunctions to block the sale of housing involved in discrimination complaints within 30 days.

— Authorize the State Human Relations Commission to investigate reports of discrimination and racial unrest without the filing of formal complaints.

— Require the commission to notify the proper state licensing board whenever a licensee is found guilty of discrimination.

— Establish penalties, including the loss of licenses, for real estate brokers convicted of discrimination.

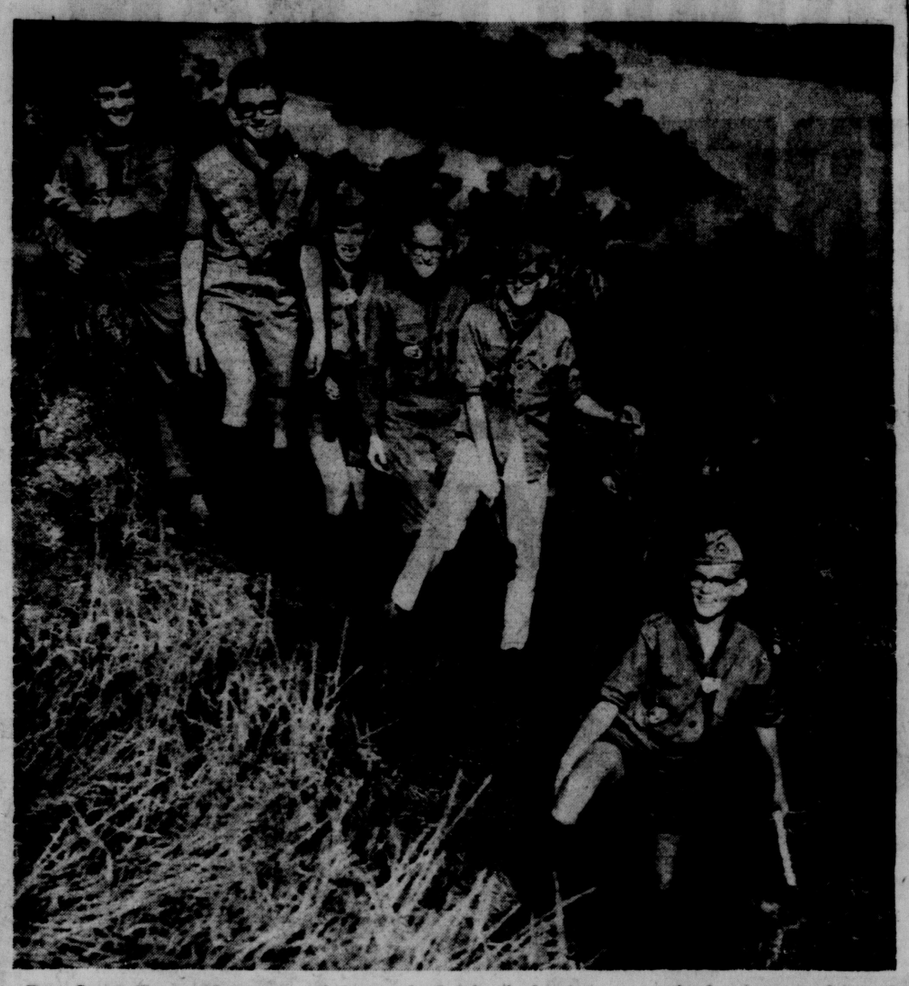
15 Agencies In Area Need Everyone's Contribution



Boy Scout Troop 12, sponsored by the Trinity United Presbyterian Church, took on the man-sized job of clearing brush from the banks along Pennsylvania Ave. so passing motorists could enjoy an uncluttered view of the beautiful Ohio River.

Scouts in Columbiana County and the Grant District of Hancock County make up the Columbiana Council of the Boy Scouts of America, with headquarters in Lisbon.

The Council has a full and part-time professional staff plus a volunteer staff of about 900 men and women. This professional - volunteer team is equally dedicated to the "character building - citizenship training" purpose of the Boy Scouts.

Two camps are operated for the use of the boys in the area. At Camp Twin Spruce, located on Leesville Lake, a central staff provides a full organized program for six weeks in the summer for the approximately 500 boys who attend each year. Training in aquatics, archery, marksmanship, nature, wood lore and related camping skills, is offered. This camp is used for short-term or week-end camping in the off season. Camp McKinley, located near Lisbon, is used for short - term camping, training courses, conferences, meetings and many other events.

The Scouts are among 15 agencies which benefit from the United Fund Drive.

Employment Levels Revised By Women After New Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — A "fantastic" flock of women seeking jobs boosted the nation's unemployment rate to a two-year high last month but, paradoxically, the Labor Department said this indicated rising job opportunities, not hard times.

While the jobless rate jumped .3 of 1 per cent to 4.1 per cent—the sharpest one-month rise in five years—total employment "remained strong" at 74.6 million, said Commissioner Arthur M. Ross of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Many women who want extra family income enter the job market when times are good and jobs are easy to get, and drop out again when jobs become scarce, Ross said.

Most such women have a working husband and economic hardship does not appear to be their main reasons for seeking work.

This phenomenon is especially marked in September when children return to school, freeing mothers to take jobs.

But the rise of nearly one million women entering the job market last month was more than double the figure for September 1966. It brought the increase in women seeking jobs to 1.4 million since economic conditions began perking up last May, Ross said.

"This is a fantastic increase," Ross said.

The jobless rate for Negro men last month dropped to 3.5 per cent, the lowest figure since the government began keeping separate figures for whites and Negroes in 1954. It also marked the first time this percentage went below the over-all national rate.

The over-all Negro jobless rate, however, which also covers women and teenagers, remained at 7.9 per cent. This is more than double the over-all 3.6 per cent figure for white workers.

"The total picture is one of a moderate expansion of employment since May," Ross said, and there were 1.4 million more Americans at work last month than a year earlier.

The actual number of unemployed persons dropped about 50,000 to 2,895,000. It usually drops about 180,000 in September.

While the unemployment rate for women climbed sharply from 3.9 to 4.9 per cent, the rate for men edged down from 2.4 to 2.3 per cent.

The unemployment rate for teen-agers, which has long run high, was up slightly to 13.8 per cent.

Pay Increase Bill OK'd By Anti-Spending House

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, while pressuring President Johnson to cut spending if he wants a tax hike, passed a federal pay raise bill which two key members say involves too much spending.

Postal rate increases would finance some of the raises.

The bill would give postal employes a 6 per cent raise and all other federal workers a 4.5 per cent pay hike. The President had recommended a 4.5 per cent raise for all civilian employes. Under the bill, there would be additional raises in the following two fiscal years.

Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, the House Republican leader; and Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, urged rejection of the provision for second and third-year increases. But 166 Democrats and 45 Republicans combined against 64 Democrats and 135 Republicans to defeat the GOP-led move to strip this provision, 211 to 199.

The cost of the pay hike is estimated at $1.9 billion for next year and $2.6 billion the following year.

The bill's postal rate increases affect all classes of service and include one-cent boosts on first class letters and two-cent jumps for air mail.

President Johnson, meanwhile, renewed his plea for passage of his 10 per cent income tax surcharge "before it is too late."

During a White House ceremony at which he signed amendments to the Small Business Act, Johnson said the business community is imperiled by "the threat of tight money." He said most businessmen "would rather pay a little more in taxes than expose themselves to the uncertain and uneven effects of tight money and spiraling interest rates."

But House Republicans met and reaffirmed their opposition to the tax hike until there is solid evidence the President will cut spending by about $5 billion.

"We know the game the administration is playing," said Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, chairman of the House Republican Conference. "They are talking about things that have nothing to do with the budget deficit. The White House has fuzzed up this issue."

Laird apparently alluded to the administration's recent announcement of a freeze on military construction and its survey of the 50 governors to find what the effects would be if federal highway funds were frozen. Neither move would mean an actual reduction in spending in the current fiscal year, as demanded by the House.

The bill passed by the House would increase postal rates eventually by $890 million annually, but congressional delay in passing the measure has cut substantially the fiscal 1968 penefit.

If the Senate acts in time to get the bill to the President by Dec. 1, and he signs it, the first-class and air-mail raises would take effect in January, along with the third-class hikes and the first stage of second-class increases. This would mean an additional $435 million in the current fiscal year, well under the $628.8 million cost of the pay bill this year.

Postage stamps would go to six cents for first class letters and five cents for post cards, while air-mail rates would go to ten cents for letters and eight cents for post cards.

Second-class rates would go up 21 per cent over three years. But an amendment adopted Tuesday would add an extra surcharge to some 45 publications, including popular magazines, which each mail more than 500,000 copies.

Third-class rates would go from the present minimum of 2.875 cents to 3.8 cents, a 32 per cent hike.

Mrs. Phoebe Giambroni's first grade won the attendance award.

Youth Faces Charge After Auto Wrecks

A Columbiana youth was arrested for speeding and his passenger injured yesterday when their car went out of control and rolled over on Route 14 near Columbiana.

Charles A. Snyder, 18, was driving his 1958 sedan west on 14 when he came upon a slow-moving vehicle. As he slammed on his brakes, the brake on the left rear wheel locked causing the auto to go out of control and flip over coming to rest on its top, Ohio Highway Patrol officers said.

Jill Dankmyer, 17, of Columbiana was taken to Salem City Hospital by ambulance and was treated and released.

The Lisbon patrol timed the accident at 7:10 p. m.

One other mishap was investigated by the patrol at 8:15 a. m. on Route 154, a mile east of Rogers.

Donald Sullivan, 28, of Pittsburgh was driving his late model pickup truck east on 154 when he met another car on a one-lane bridge. Sullivan swerved left and went into a ditch.

The driver of the second car had left the scene when officers arrived.

Sullivan's car suffered moderate damage. No one was cited.

Sun Probe Scheduled By NASA Next Week

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The space agency said today it will launch a satellite to probe the sun next week, about the time two other spacecraft rendezvous with the planet Venus.

Sun-studying Oso 4, the fourth orbiting solar observatory, is to rocket into orbit Oct. 18 from a Cape Kennedy launch pad to continue studies of the sun and its influence on earth's atmosphere.

One day later, America's Mariner 5 is to finish a 200-million-mile trip through space it began from Cape Kennedy last June 14, flying within 2,500 miles of Venus to make scientific observations. A heavier Russian probe, Venus 4, will arrive at the planet on Oct. 18, beating Mariner 5 by about 24 hours.

Ford Strike Talks Pushed In Blackout

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers labored in the secrecy of an extended news blackout today in efforts to bring a quick end to the nation's fifth longest auto strike.

The blackout was clamped on negotiations Tuesday night for 24 hours, then extended indefinitely Wednesday, fueling speculation that a dramatic turn—possibly even settlement—was near.

Similar news blackouts often have heralded a break in stalled auto contract talks in the past.

"It could be for more or less" than another 24 hour period, said a spokesman for the union.

"The blackout has been 1,000 per cent effective," said a Ford spokesman and he appeared to be right.

Bargainers virtually dropped from sight during the day. It could not be learned if there were any joint talks. Equal secrecy veiled a regular meeting of the Ford board of directors, held— perhaps coincidentally—hours after the blackout was set.

The union spokesman would say only that both sides had been in "close communication."

The strike, which has idled 160,000 workers at Ford plants in 25 states, started Sept. 6 at expiration of a three-year contract and a two-month period of fruitless negotiations.

Police Chief Returned To Job At Steubenville

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) —Police Chief Robert C. Cornelius was reappointed Wednesday by Mayor Andrew W. Miller, one day after Miller suspended him indefinitely, contending that Cornelius failed to clean up gambling here.

Cornelius was ordered to report to work at 9 a.m. and indicated he would. Neither he, nor the mayor would comment on the action.

Miller suspended the police chief Aug. 14, but Cornelius appealed the order. The suspension was withheld, pending outcome of a Civil Service Commission hearing.

Monday, Chief Cornelius withdrew his appeal and Miller put the suspension in effect. Miller, then appointed Police Capt. Robert Devrnja as acting chief.

The two - volume memoirs of Ulysses S. Grant were published by Mark Twain, the noted author.

Ohio Visit Made By Rickenbacker

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker visited his native Ohio and met a figure from his past—a Licking County man who once helped save the World War II hero's life.

The 77-year-old former flying ace was greeted here Wednesday by David Mills of Heath, a cook on the PT boat which picked up Rickenbacker after he had been adrift 24 days in the Pacific Ocean.

When picked up by the PT boat, Rickenbacker — who had been on a secret mission — got the first meal since his ordeal started from Mills. It was a bowl of beef broth.

The two chatted amiably for a few minutes and then Rickenbacker, here to promote his new book, "Rickenbacker: An Autobiography," held an interview.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Four recreation experts, including baseball great Jackie Robinson, will appear here when the Ohio Youth Commission holds its third annual recreation conference Oct. 17-19. About 200 commission staff members are expected to attend.

Forty-one members of TOPS from New Waterford, New Springfield, Columbiana and East Palestine attended a Northeastern Central Ohio TOPS convention in Cleveland. The initials mean "Take Off Pounds Sensibly."

Cleveland's Mayor Ralph Locher proclaimed the date as TOPS Day as a crowd of nearly 2,000 gathered for the festivities at the Sheraton-Cleveland Hotel.

Mary Flowers, president of the New Waterford TOPS, was crowned "queen" of the state of Ohio in her division. Six members from the area were graduated as KOPS — Mary Jeanne Burkert of Columbiana and Jeanne Allcorn, Wilma Cyrus, Margaret Jones, Thelma Kuntz and Martha Springer of East Palestine. "KOPS" means "Keep Off Pounds Sensibly."

A comedy fashion show, under the direction of Mamie Thomas and Judy Best, was presented by ten members of the New Waterford club during the morning session.

The trip was made by chartered bus.

Ford Strike Talks Pushed In Blackout

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers labored in the secrecy of an extended news blackout today in efforts to bring a quick end to the nation's fifth longest auto strike.

The blackout was clamped on negotiations Tuesday night for 24 hours, then extended indefinitely Wednesday, fueling speculation that a dramatic turn—possibly even settlement—was near.

Similar news blackouts often have heralded a break in stalled auto contract talks in the past.

"It could be for more or less" than another 24 hour period, said a spokesman for the union.

"The blackout has been 1,000 per cent effective," said a Ford spokesman and he appeared to be right.

Bargainers virtually dropped from sight during the day. It could not be learned if there were any joint talks. Equal secrecy veiled a regular meeting of the Ford board of directors, held— perhaps coincidentally—hours after the blackout was set.

The union spokesman would say only that both sides had been in "close communication."

The strike, which has idled 160,000 workers at Ford plants in 25 states, started Sept. 6 at expiration of a three-year contract and a two-month period of fruitless negotiations.

Police Chief Returned To Job At Steubenville

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) —Police Chief Robert C. Cornelius was reappointed Wednesday by Mayor Andrew W. Miller, one day after Miller suspended him indefinitely, contending that Cornelius failed to clean up gambling here.

Cornelius was ordered to report to work at 9 a.m. and indicated he would. Neither he, nor the mayor would comment on the action.

Miller suspended the police chief Aug. 14, but Cornelius appealed the order. The suspension was withheld, pending outcome of a Civil Service Commission hearing.

Monday, Chief Cornelius withdrew his appeal and Miller put the suspension in effect. Miller, then appointed Police Capt. Robert Devrnja as acting chief.

The two - volume memoirs of Ulysses S. Grant were published by Mark Twain, the noted author.

Ohio Visit Made By Rickenbacker

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker visited his native Ohio and met a figure from his past—a Licking County man who once helped save the World War II hero's life.

The 77-year-old former flying ace was greeted here Wednesday by David Mills of Heath, a cook on the PT boat which picked up Rickenbacker after he had been adrift 24 days in the Pacific Ocean.

When picked up by the PT boat, Rickenbacker — who had been on a secret mission — got the first meal since his ordeal started from Mills. It was a bowl of beef broth.

The two chatted amiably for a few minutes and then Rickenbacker, here to promote his new book, "Rickenbacker: An Autobiography," held an interview.

Youth Session Set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Four recreation experts, including baseball great Jackie Robinson, will appear here when the Ohio Youth Commission holds its third annual recreation conference Oct. 17-19. About 200 commission staff members are expected to attend.

41 From County Join In 'TOPS' Meeting

Forty-one members of TOPS from New Waterford, New Springfield, Columbiana and East Palestine attended a Northeastern Central Ohio TOPS convention in Cleveland. The initials mean "Take Off Pounds Sensibly."

Cleveland's Mayor Ralph Locher proclaimed the date as TOPS Day as a crowd of nearly 2,000 gathered for the festivities at the Sheraton-Cleveland Hotel.

Mary Flowers, president of the New Waterford TOPS, was crowned "queen" of the state of Ohio in her division. Six members from the area were graduated as KOPS — Mary Jeanne Burkert of Columbiana and Jeanne Allcorn, Wilma Cyrus, Margaret Jones, Thelma Kuntz and Martha Springer of East Palestine. "KOPS" means "Keep Off Pounds Sensibly."

A comedy fashion show, under the direction of Mamie Thomas and Judy Best, was presented by ten members of the New Waterford club during the morning session.

The trip was made by chartered bus.

Migration added an estimated 456,000 persons to the U.S. population in 1966, compared with 397,000 in 1965.

Dinner Plans Set

SUMMITVILLE — Plans have been completed for the annual fall festival and dinner to be held Sunday from noon until 5 at St. John's Catholic Church here. Mrs. John Gruszecki, general chairman, said proceeds will be used for the building fund.

Another major league came to Pittsburgh last night, but you disappointed Pirate and Steeler fans — don't get your hopes up.

The Pittsburgh Penguins made their debut in the National Hockey League with a 2-1 loss to the Montreal Canadians. In some ways the game was encouraging, since the Canadians are to hockey what the New York Yankees were to baseball before the last couple of seasons. Jean Beliveau's goal, which proved to be the winner for Montreal, was the 400th of his career, and you don't pick up 400 goals in just a season or two, or even 10.

The National Hockey League, saturated to 95 per cent capacity attendance (even the NFL doesn't do as well), decided this year to expand. The league didn't just create a new team or two—they created a whole new six-team division, doubling the size of the league.

The Penguins and the rest of the teams in their division, like any expansion franchise, are mainly veterans past their peak, perennial minor leagers or unproven youngsters. So the loss to Les Canadiens, the most fabled team in the sport, was anything but a disgrace. Nevertheless, some in the crowd of 8,500 were yelling "Bring back the Hornets!" during periods when the Penguins were hardly more mobile than their antarctic namesakes. (The Pittsburgh Hornets were champions of the American Hockey League, the top minor league, last year.)

THE PENGUINS have some glaring weaknesses. The worst is probably their second set of defensemen, Noel Price and Al McNeill. Price played with a hapless Buffalo team last year and off his performance last night he must have been a contributing factor to the Bisons' poor showing. McNeill likes to hit, not a fault in defensemen, but he lacks finesse. The top defensive pair of Leo Boivin and Dick Mattiussi is a class combo.

The Penguins' goalie, Hank Bassen, is a veteran of the NHL, and while never a star he has been the top goalie on some good teams. But last night he looked like a school boy in his first try at the position.

He seemed unsure of himself, kept falling to the ice in response to fake shots, and was very lucky that more goals weren't scored against him. Several Montreal shots hit the posts and bounced out. Reserve goalie Les Binkley, a star with Cleveland two years ago, looked very good in practice Monday, and maybe a change is indicated.

By contrast, the netminding by 22-year-lod Rogatien Vachon of the Canadiens was superb. He was filling in for the injured Gump Worsley, but Worsley may have trouble getting his job back if Vachon continues to perform up to last night's standards.

The one shot that got by him he never saw. Andy Bathgate, regarded as the best slap-shooter in NHL history, let one fly from about 35 feet out at a speed somewhat faster than Bob Gibson's fast ball and Vachon was lucky the puck hit the upper corner of the net instead of his body.

BATHGATE IS the enigma of the Penguins. A superstar five yers ago with the New York Rangers, he was then traded to Toronto and Detroit. Last year he spent part of the season in the minors, at Pittsburgh, and the new teams were so sure that he would retire after this indignity that they didn't draft him until the 17th round. But he consented to play for the Penguins, under his old Ranger teammate Red Sullivan.

Bathgate at times played brilliantly, hitting his teammates with passes that were perfect (though they weren't always alert enough to handle them), but at other times he loafed and the first Montreal goal was his fault. The Canadiens were shorthanded, and the Penguins were trying their woefully inadequate power play, when the puck got by Bathgate and Gilles Tremblay skated around him and went in on Bassen alone, easily faking the goalkeeper and netting the puck.

In practice Monday, Bathgate artfully dogged it as Sullivan put the squad through such a hard workout that members of the press in attendance got tired just watching. Bathgate is 35, and maybe age is catching up with him. But if he is just going through the motions, it would be a shame if his attitude rubbed off on the younger, less talented but more enthusiastic Penguins, who someday hope to compete on even terms with the Montreals, Torontos, Chicagos and Detroits of the league.

Gibson, Lonborg In Today's Final

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox try to climax one of baseball's most incredible turn-abouts today when they meet the St. Louis Cardinals in the seventh and deciding game of the World Series.

The Red Sox, a 100-1 shot to win the American League pennant, trailed the Cardinals three games to one, but fought the odds again to win the next two games and force the final game against the once heavily favored National League winners.

The cardinals missed a second chance to wrap it up Wednesday when the Cardinal pitching staff failed. The Red Sox won 8-4 with a four-run seventh inning that broke a 4-4 tie.

When St. Louis Manager Red Schoendienst tries to sleep this winter, counting sheep won't do any good should the Cardinals lose today. He'll lie awake counting Cardinal pitchers riding from the bullpen to the mound in the sixth game.

The parade of pitchers stopped Wednesday only because the game ended. When it did, the Boston Red Sox had won 8-4 and evened the Series at three games each.

That meant the Series would go to the seventh and deciding game today.

It also meant each team's ace pitcher, St. Louis' Bob Gibson and Boston's Jim Lonborg, finally would face each other after winning two games apiece against other pitchers. In no other Series have a pair of 2-0 pitchers faced each other.

LONBORG, the winner in games two and five, left Fenway Park in the seventh inning, sent home early by Manager Dick Williams to avoid the post-game bedlam.

If there was any difference in the pitchers, it was in the amount of rest each had since their last game—Gibson three days and Lonborg two.

"I'd prefer Jim to have three days rest," Williams said, "but I'd rather have him than any other pitcher in baseball, even with two days rest."

"I'm ready," Gibson countered. "I just want to go out and do the job. I'll probably be more rested than Lonborg, but sometimes in the Series it doesn't make any difference. It's that little something extra that wins a World Series."

The Red Sox had a lot extra Wednesday as they slugged their way to the Series-tying victory.

They started with Rico Petrocelli's home run in the second inning, went through three more homers off Dick Hughes—by Carl Yastrzemski, Reggie Smith and Petrocelli again — in the fourth and climaxed the wild contest with a tie-breaking, four-run rally in the seventh that featured some nearly unbelievable plays. It took 29 minutes to play the last of the seventh.

"They can call it destiny, luck, ability or a combination of all three," Williams said. "Whatever it is, I hope it lasts one more day."

IN FORCING it to seven games, the Red Sox have confounded the experts just as they did in rocketing from ninth place to first in the American League.

When they were down three games to one, they knew that only three teams in 63 previous series had come back from that deficit—the 1903 Red Sox, the 1925 Pittsburgh Pirates and the 1956 New York Yankees.

Schoendienst and the rest of the Cardinals watched in agony, and very likely disbelief, as eight of their pitchers took turns trying to subdue the aroused Red Sox. No team ever has used more than eight pitchers in a Series game.

Hughes began the day and after he was battered for a record-tying four homers—a record-breaking three in one inning—he was followed by Ron Willis, Nelson Briles, Jack Lamabe, Joe Hoerner, Larry Jaster, Ray Washburn and Hal Woodeshick.

"I didn't think they'd hit Hughes like that," Schoendienst said.

"When you're not hitting, you press," said shortstop Petrocelli, who went into the game with only one hit in 14 at-bats. "But the first homer really lifted me. I felt more confident, more relaxed at the plate.

"THEY BOTH surprised me. Anytime I get a hit, it surprises me. I just threw the bat out, and the ball hit the bat. After the second one I was in another world. I got chills running around the bases."

Despite the home run barrage, the Cardinals stayed in the game with Lou Brock doing the damage as usual.

In the third inning, he singled home St. Louis' first run, then stole second and raced home as Curt Flood singled. In the seventh, he tied the game again, this time on a two-run, 440-foot homer against John Wyatt, who turned out to be the winning pitcher.

Then came the Boston seventh, which pinch hitter Dalton Jones started with a single off Lamabe. Joe Foy doubled, driving in Jones with the tie-breaking run and driving out Lamabe, the eventual loser.

Hoerner gave up singles to Mike Andrews and Yastrzemski and Jaster was touched for Jerry Adair's sacrifice fly and singles by George Scott and Reggie Smith before Washburn finally ended the inning.

There were three plays in the inning that were crucial. Brock made an unsuccessful leaping stab for Foy's double, shortstop Dal Maxvill broke right instead of left for Scott's routine grounder and Brock, Flood and Maxvill let Smith's high fly ball drop among them.

"I NEVER saw the ball," Maxvill said. "I don't know why I lost it. I lunged to the right and the next thing I know the ball was bouncing past me."

Gone, but not forgotten by the end was Gary Waslewski, Boston's 26-year-old rookie who started the vital game. He lasted 5 1-3 innings, allowing two runs and four hits.

"Was did a heck of a job," Williams said. "I'm only sorry he couldn't get the victory. He gave me all he could as long as he could."

Added Waslewski, who hadn't started a game since Sept. 3 at Toronto:

"I wish I could have done better. I just ran out of gas. My arm went numb, and I couldn't find the plate. I think it was just a little too long between starts."

Giants Get Colvin

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Giants of the National Football League Wednesday acquired Jim Colvin, veteran defensive tackle, from the Dallas Cowboys for an undisclosed draft choice.

BOMBERS 3. The three Red Sox who hit homeruns yesterday in Boston's 8-4 win that tied the World Series at 3 games each are, from left, Rico Petrocelli, who hit two, Carl Yastrzemski and Reggie Smith. (UPI Telephoto)

McKinley Hosts Big Red Tomorrow

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—This could be the week that was for Ohio's high school football powers.

No. 1 ranked Canton McKinley (5-0) risks its lofty position when the Bulldogs play host to No. 4 rated Steubenville 5-0 in the top scholastic game of the week—and possibly the season.

The state title could be on the line when Coach Ron Chismar's Bulldogs bid to ward off the challenge of Coach Abe Bryan's Big Red in the Friday night skirmish.

So is unbeaten Cincinnati Roger Bacon and the other clubs in the AP's Top Ten.

If McKinley gets by Steubenville, the Bulldogs appear a cinch to nail down their third crown unless they stumble against Massillon the last game of the season.

Massillon still must play Arlington, Oct. 20, and Steubenville and McKinley the final two weeks of the season. Arlington, averaging 46 points a game, also has an engagement with last year's titlist, Columbus Watterson.

There are other standout games on tap Friday. Toledo Woodward, who put the only blemish on Sandusky's record, goes against No. 9 rated Toledo St. Francis. Seventh-ranked Dover opposes Mansfield Madison in a key Cardinal Conference clash.

Scholastic sidelights: Black River, which hasn't won a game in six years, made news last week beating Berlin Heights 14-0.

The Medina County school ended a winless streak of 52 games dating back to Sept. 29, 1962. The Class A school had lost 50 and tied two during the span.

Unbeaten Kent Roosevelt scored 42 points in one quarter in its 71-24 pasting of Akron Ellet. Revere's Chuck Penzenik piled up 303 yards in only 15 carries as it toppled Green 41-16.

No. 10 Youngstown Ursuline edged Youngstown Chaney 16-8 last Saturday before 10,000 fans. Chaney has lost only three league games in the last four years, all to Ursuline.

In Southington's 23-14 victory over Lowellville Saturday, Terry Kelly of the winners drop kicked a 30-yard field goal.

Strong East Liverpool gained 329 yards passing in a 40-6 romp over Dayton Dunbar. The Potters (4-0) have outscored their opponents, 126-14.

Marion Harding upset Fremont Ross 14-6 for its first win on the road since 1963. It snapped a 12-game losing streak for Harding.

Brock Goes For Broke, Hughes Broken By Sox

BOSTON (AP) — Did Red Schoendienst go too far with Dick Hughes: Should Lou Brock have played Joe Foy's drive safely instead of trying to make a leaping catch? What happened to Dal Maxvill on George Scott's ground ball single?

The sixth game of the World Series Wednesday at Fenway Park in which the Boston Red Sox squared matters at 3-3 by winning an 8-4 slugfest left a few questions to be answered.

Needing only one more win to close out the Series, the Cardinal manager left starter Hughes in the box until a record-tying four home runs were hit off him in 3 2-3 innings.

With a bullpen loaded with rested pitchers, there were some who second guessed the Card manager for not giving Hughes a quicker hook in the fourth inning.

Rico Petrocelli had homered off Hughes in the second inning, a drive into the screen atop the left field "Green Monster" wall, barely fair at the 315-foot mark.

After a Cardinal rally, composed of Julian Javier's double, Brock's single and stolen base and Curt Flood's single had put the Cards ahead, 2-1, in the third, the Red Sox really bombed Hughes in the fourth.

Red Sox Homer Barrage Beats Cards, Evens Series

Another major league came to Pittsburgh last night, but you disappointed Pirate and Steeler fans — don't get your hopes up.

The Pittsburgh Penguins made their debut in the National Hockey League with a 2-1 loss to the Montreal Canadians. In some ways the game was encouraging, since the Canadians are to hockey what the New York Yankees were to baseball before the last couple of seasons. Jean Beliveau's goal, which proved to be the winner for Montreal, was the 400th of his career, and you don't pick up 400 goals in just a season or two, or even 10.

The National Hockey League, saturated to 95 per cent capacity attendance (even the NFL doesn't do as well), decided this year to expand. The league didn't just create a new team or two—they created a whole new six-team division, doubling the size of the league.

The Penguins and the rest of the teams in their division, like any expansion franchise, are mainly veterans past their peak, perennial minor leagers or unproven youngsters. So the loss to Les Canadiens, the most fabled team in the sport, was anything but a disgrace. Nevertheless, some in the crowd of 8,500 were yelling "Bring back the Hornets!" during periods when the Penquins were hardly more mobile than their antarctic namesakes. (The Pittsburgh Hornets were champions of the American Hockey League, the top minor league, last year.)

THE PENGUINS have some glaring weaknesses. The worst is probably their second set of defensemen, Noel Price and Al McNeill. Price played with a hapless Buffalo team last year and off his performance last night he must have been a contributing factor to the Bisons' poor showing. McNeill likes to hit, not a fault in defensemen, but he lacks finesse. The top defensive pair of Leo Boivin and Dick Mattiussi is a class combo.

The Penguins' goalie, Hank Bassen, is a veteran of the NHL, and while never a star he has been the top goalie on some good teams. But last night he looked like a school boy in his first try at the position.

He seemed unsure of himself, kept falling to the ice in response to fake shots, and was very lucky that more goals weren't scored against him. Several Montreal shots hit the posts and bounced out. Reserve goalie Les Binkley, a star with Cleveland two years ago, looked very good in practice Monday, and maybe a change is indicated.

By contrast, the netminding by 22-year-lod Rogatien Vachon of the Canadiens was superb. He was filling in for the injured Gump Worsley, but Worsley may have trouble getting his job back if Vachon continues to perform up to last night's standards.

The one shot that got by him he never saw. Andy Bathgate, regarded as the best slap-shooter in NHL history, let one fly from about 35 feet out at a speed somewhat faster than Bob Gibson's fast ball and Vachon was lucky the puck hit the upper corner of the net instead of his body.

BATHGATE IS the enigma of the Penguins. A superstar five yers ago with the New York Rangers, he was then traded to Toronto and Detroit. Last year he spent part of the season in the minors, at Pittsburgh, and the new teams were so sure that he would retire after this indignity that they didn't draft him until the 17th round. But he consented to play for the Penguins, under his old Ranger teammate Red Sullivan.

Bathgate at times played brilliantly, hitting his teammates with passes that were perfect (though they weren't always alert enough to handle them), but at other times he loafed and the first Montreal goal was his fault. The Canadiens were shorthanded, and the Penguins were trying their woefully inadequate power play, when the puck got by Bathgate and Gilles Tremblay skated around him and went in on Bassen alone, easily faking the goalkeeper and netting the puck.

In practice Monday, Bathgate artfully dogged it as Sullivan put the squad through such a hard workout that members of the press in attendance got tired just watching. Bathgate is 35, and maybe age is catching up with him. But if he is just going through the motions, it would be a shame if his attitude rubbed off on the younger, less talented but more enthusiastic Penguins, who someday hope to compete on even terms with the Montreals, Torontos, Chicagos and Detroits of the league.

Gibson, Lonborg In Today's Final

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox try to climax one of baseball's most incredible turn-abouts today when they meet the St. Louis Cardinals in the seventh and deciding game of the World Series.

The Red Sox, a 100-1 shot to win the American League pennant, trailed the Cardinals three games to one, but fought the odds again to win the next two games and force the final game against the once heavily favored National League winners.

The cardinals missed a second chance to wrap it up Wednesday when the Cardinal pitching staff failed. The Red Sox won 8-4 with a four-run seventh inning that broke a 4-4 tie.

When St. Louis Manager Red Schoendienst tries to sleep this winter, counting sheep won't do any good should the Cardinals lose today. He'll lie awake counting Cardinal pitchers riding from the bullpen to the mound in the sixth game.

The parade of pitchers stopped Wednesday only because the game ended. When it did, the Boston Red Sox had won 8-4 and evened the Series at three games each.

That meant the Series would go to the seventh and deciding game today.

It also meant each team's ace pitcher, St. Louis' Bob Gibson and Boston's Jim Lonborg, finally would face each other after winning two games apiece against other pitchers. In no other Series have a pair of 2-0 pitchers faced each other.

LONBORG, the winner in games two and five, left Fenway Park in the seventh inning, sent home early by Manager Dick Williams to avoid the post-game bedlam.

If there was any difference in the pitchers, it was in the amount of rest each had since their last game—Gibson three days and Lonborg two.

"I'd prefer Jim to have three days rest," Williams said, "but I'd rather have him than any other pitcher in baseball, even with two days rest."

"I'm ready," Gibson countered. "I just want to go out and do the job. I'll probably be more rested than Lonborg, but sometimes in the Series it doesn't make any difference. It's that little something extra that wins a World Series."

The Red Sox had a lot extra Wednesday as they slugged their way to the Series-tying victory.

They started with Rico Petrocelli's home run in the second inning, went through three more homers off Dick Hughes—by Carl Yastrzemski, Reggie Smith and Petrocelli again — in the fourth and climaxed the wild contest with a tie-breaking, four-run rally in the seventh that featured some nearly unbelievable plays. It took 29 minutes to play the last of the seventh.

"They can call it destiny, luck, ability or a combination of all three," Williams said. "Whatever it is, I hope it lasts one more day."

IN FORCING it to seven games, the Red Sox have confounded the experts just as they did in rocketing from ninth place to first in the American League.

When they were down three games to one, they knew that only three teams in 63 previous series had come back from that deficit—the 1903 Red Sox, the 1925 Pittsburgh Pirates and the 1956 New York Yankees.

Schoendienst and the rest of the Cardinals watched in agony, and very likely disbelief, as eight of their pitchers took turns trying to subdue the aroused Red Sox. No team ever has used more than eight pitchers in a Series game.

Hughes began the day and after he was battered for a record-tying four homers—a record-breaking three in one inning—he was followed by Ron Willis, Nelson Briles, Jack Lamabe, Joe Hoerner, Larry Jaster, Ray Washburn and Hal Woodeshick.

"I didn't think they'd hit Hughes like that," Schoendienst said.

"When you're not hitting, you press," said shortstop Petrocelli, who went into the game with only one hit in 14 at-bats. "But the first homer really lifted me. I felt more confident, more relaxed at the plate.

"THEY BOTH surprised me. Anytime I get a hit, it surprises me. I just threw the bat out, and the ball hit the bat. After the second one I was in another world. I got chills running around the bases."

Despite the home run barrage, the Cardinals stayed in the game with Lou Brock doing the damage as usual.

In the third inning, he singled home St. Louis' first run, then stole second and raced home as Curt Flood singled. In the seventh, he tied the game again, this time on a two-run, 440-foot homer against John Wyatt, who turned out to be the winning pitcher.

Then came the Boston seventh, which pinch hitter Dalton Jones started with a single off Lamabe. Joe Foy doubled, driving in Jones with the tie-breaking run and driving out Lamabe, the eventual loser.

Hoerner gave up singles to Mike Andrews and Yastrzemski and Jaster was touched for Jerry Adair's sacrifice fly and singles by George Scott and Reggie Smith before Washburn finally ended the inning.

There were three plays in the inning that were crucial. Brock made an unsuccessful leaping stab for Foy's double, shortstop Dal Maxvill broke right instead of left for Scott's routine grounder and Brock, Flood and Maxvill let Smith's high fly ball drop among them.

"I NEVER saw the ball," Maxvill said. "I don't know why I lost it. I lunged to the right and the next thing I know the ball was bouncing past me."

Gone, but not forgotten by the end was Gary Waslewski, Boston's 26-year-old rookie who started the vital game. He lasted 5 1-3 innings, allowing two runs and four hits.

"Was did a heck of a job," Williams said. "I'm only sorry he couldn't get the victory. He gave me all he could as long as he could."

Added Waslewski, who hadn't started a game since Sept. 3 at Toronto:

"I wish I could have done better. I just ran out of gas. My arm went numb, and I couldn't find the plate. I think it was just a little too long between starts."

Giants Get Colvin

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Giants of the National Football League Wednesday acquired Jim Colvin, veteran defensive tackle, from the Dallas Cowboys for an undisclosed draft choice.

BOMBERS 3. The three Red Sox who hit homeruns yesterday in Boston's 8-4 win that tied the World Series at 3 games each are, from left, Rico Petrocelli, who hit two, Carl Yastrzemski and Reggie Smith. (UPI Telephoto)

McKinley Hosts Big Red Tomorrow

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—This could be the week that was for Ohio's high school football powers.

No. 1 ranked Canton McKinley (5-0) risks its lofty position when the Bulldogs play host to No. 4 rated Steubenville 5-0 in the top scholastic game of the week—and possibly the season.

The state title could be on the line when Coach Ron Chismar's Bulldogs bid to ward off the challenge of Coach Abe Bryan's Big Red in the Friday night skirmish.

So is unbeaten Cincinnati Roger Bacon and the other clubs in the AP's Top Ten.

If McKinley gets by Steubenville, the Bulldogs appear a cinch to nail down their third crown unless they stumble against Massillon the last game of the season.

Massillon still must play Arlington, Oct. 20, and Steubenville and McKinley the final two weeks of the season. Arlington, averaging 46 points a game, also has an engagement with last year's titlist, Columbus Watterson.

There are other standout games on tap Friday. Toledo Woodward, who put the only blemish on Sandusky's record, goes against No. 9 rated Toledo St. Francis. Seventh-ranked Dover opposes Mansfield Madison in a key Cardinal Conference clash.

Scholastic sidelights: Black River, which hasn't won a game in six years, made news last week beating Berlin Heights 14-0.

The Medina County school ended a winless streak of 52 games dating back to Sept. 29, 1962. The Class A school had lost 50 and tied two during the span.

Unbeaten Kent Roosevelt scored 42 points in one quarter in its 71-24 pasting of Akron Ellet. Revere's Chuck Penzenik piled up 303 yards in only 15 carries as it toppled Green 41-16.

No. 10 Youngstown Ursuline edged Youngstown Chaney 16-8 last Saturday before 10,000 fans. Chaney has lost only three league games in the last four years, all to Ursuline.

In Southington's 23-14 victory over Lowellville Saturday, Terry Kelly of the winners drop kicked a 30-yard field goal.

Strong East Liverpool gained 329 yards passing in a 40-6 romp over Dayton Dunbar. The Potters (4-0) have outscored their opponents, 126-14.

Marion Harding upset Fremont Ross 14-6 for its first win on the road since 1963. It snapped a 12-game losing streak for Harding.

Brock Goes For Broke, Hughes Broken By Sox

BOSTON (AP) — Did Red Schoendienst go too far with Dick Hughes: Should Lou Brock have played Joe Foy's drive safely instead of trying to make a leaping catch? What happened to Dal Maxvill on George Scott's ground ball single?

The sixth game of the World Series Wednesday at Fenway Park in which the Boston Red Sox squared matters at 3-3 by winning an 8-4 slugfest left a few questions to be answered.

Needing only one more win to close out the Series, the Cardinal manager left starter Hughes in the box until a record-tying four home runs were hit off him in 3 2-3 innings.

With a bullpen loaded with rested pitchers, there were some who second guessed the Card manager for not giving Hughes a quicker hook in the fourth inning.

Rico Petrocelli had homered off Hughes in the second inning, a drive into the screen atop the left field "Green Monster" wall, barely fair at the 315-foot mark.

After a Cardinal rally, composed of Julian Javier's double, Brock's single and stolen base and Curt Flood's single had put the Cards ahead, 2-1, in the third, the Red Sox really bombed Hughes in the fourth.

Carl Yastrzemski led off with a 360-foot smash into the screen in left center. After Hughes got two out, Reggie Smith slashed a homer into the right field stands. Then Petrocelli did it again, this time a duplicate of Yaz's homer, to left center.

7 Games In Area Friday, Homecoming For Oak Glen

Beaver Local, Midland On Road

East Liverpool doesn't play until Saturday night this week, but there are seven games in the area tomorrow night to keep the local fans occupied.

Oak Glen Hosts Philip Barbour of Phillipi, W. Va., Midland travels to Burgettstown, Beaver Local is at East Palestine, Columbiana and Leetonia clash at Lee- is at Center Twp., near Monaca, and Lisbon enter- is at Centery Twp., near Monaca, and Lisbon entertains Sebring.

The Golden Bears of Bob Starkey are 1-4 on the year, but played a fine game against powerful Wheeling Central last week before falling in the final minutes 18-13. Oak Glen has beaten Triadelphia while losing to Weirton Madonna, Follansbee and Wellsburg. Alan Six is the leading rusher for the Golden Bears and Craig Whittington has been an effective passer on occasion. The game is homecoming for Oak Glen.

Philip Barbour is 3-2-1. It played a scoreless tie with Fairmont West, lost to Buckhannon 13-0 and to Morgantown 27-20, and beat Grafton 20-6, Clarksburg Notre Dame 6-0 and University High of Morgantown 31-0 last week. Halfback Bob Snider and fullback Ben Roy are the top runners for George Bryer's team, while tackle Allen Gray and guard Jim Zirkle are the top linemen. Zirkle was an Monongahela Valley lineman of the week earlier this year. Last year Philip Barbour beat the Golden Bears 26-21.

Midland, 2-2-1, is without injury for the first time in several weeks, though Barney Newman will miss the game for religious reasons. Pat McShane will start at center and Bill Love at middle guard in Newman's place. Paul Francis and Anthony (Buck) Williams, previously hurt, will be ready to play. Burgettstown is 3-2, 2-1, in Class A play. The Blue Devils lost to Waynesburg 6-0 and Weirton Madonna 24-6 before winning their last three, 52-12 over South Park, 21-19 over Freedom and 28-13 over Carnegie. Mel Riddle is their top runner and Leopard coach Joe Hamilton respects their 5-3 defense, especially against passing. Midland won 32-0 last year and 7-0 the year before.

Beaver Local, which has won three straight after two losses, faces East Palestine, which has dropped its last two after three straight wins. The only common foe has been Leetonia, which topped the Beavers 24-6 and downed the Bulldogs 13-6. The Beavers' passing attack has been rolling in high gear lately, with Dennis Klembara finding Rex Campbell his favorite target. Joe Thompson is the top runner for the Bulldogs and Jim Taucher is a standout at end on offense and defense.

Columbiana, 5-0, could all but clinch the Tri-County League title with a win over Leetonia, 4-1. The Bears were upset by Minerva 24-20 last week, but hope to bounce back. Halfback Ken DiCross scored twice in the loss and fullback Danny Bell, the top rusher on the team, got the other TD. The game will be homecoming for the Bears and Coach Dick Hartzell predicts his team will be ready for the Clippers. Ray Bellisari's club is led by Bill Ward, the leading scorer in the county, and George Lynn, a standout lineman.

Southern Local is 2-2 and Crestview 2-3. They have played no common opponents. Rich Rose, who scored 26 points in last week's rout of Greenford, leads Beau Bell's young Southern team. Joe Remis is the top runner for Dick Scarborough's Rebels.

Western Beaver, 3-2 overall and 1-0 in Class B play, hopes to remain alive in B title competition at Center Twp., 2-2. The Trojans opened with wins over Mars, 13-0, and Sharpsburg 35-14, but fell to Avalon 19-0 and Quaker Valley 13-7. Jim D'Antonio's club went 8-0 last year. The game will be played at Monaca High's field. Western also fell to Quaker Valley, 19-0, and beat Mars 20-7, so the game figures to be close. Joe Rasillo has taken over as the quarterback for Dan Sekeres' team, with John Petchel, Dwayne Cooper and Bob Paulovich rounding out the backfield. Nick Cilli shines on defense.

Lisbon, the surprise team of the area this year with a 4-1 mark, should have no trouble with Sebring, 2-3. The Trojans have edged United, 8-0, and Poland 6-0, and lost to Champion, 6-0, to East Palestine 46-6 and to Louisville 42-0. Lisbon beat common opponents East Palestine 13-8 and Poland 22-0. Quarterback Randy Muntean is the top scorer for Bud Bucher's Blue Devils, while Jim Badderly is the top runner for Chet Riffle's Sebring squad.

Track Marks Broken

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Pole winner Cale Yarborough and Lee Roy Yarbrough, both driving Fords, garnered the top two spots for Sunday's National 500 stock car race Wednesday and shattered qualifying records at Charlotte Motor Speedway with respective average speeds of 154.872 and 154.639 miles per hour.

Montreal's Beliveau Gets 400th

Penguins Lose NHL Opener 2-1

By IRA MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — There was happiness almost all the way around after the first game matching old and new in the expanded National Hockey League.

Coach Toe Blake of old Montreal, the 2-1 victor over new Pittsburgh, said the Penguins were tougher than he thought they'd be.

Red Sullivan, the Pittsburgh coach, said his club was good, but could have been better.

And Jean Beliveau, winning it with his 400th goal, joining a select pair . . . well, it was just like the other 399, he said.

Actually, the Penguins never thought they'd be embarassed against any of the established teams and now that they've played one of them, fear of embraassment has vanished for thoughts of victory.

"I thought we played pretty well in spots," said Sullivan. "But we could have played better. If we had gotten one or two goals early it would have made a difference.

"But you have to give (Roga tien) Vachon a lot of credit. He made five or six real good saves on us."

Bealiveau, who has scored more goals than any other center in NHL history and more than anyone at all except the incomparable Gordie Howe and Maurice Richards said simply, "it was awfully nice."

He said he didn't particularly value his 400th goal any more than the others, except that it turned out to be a winning goal.

Beliveau is in his 15th season. Howe, in his 22nd year, has 649, and Richard scored 544 in 18 seasons.

Blake said he thought all along the expansion teams would be competitive.

"I even had a meeting this afternoon before the game to tell my players this team is up and waiting for this game," he said. "They practiced well, they played well in the exhibition games. I expected a tough game and we got all . . . we got more than we bargained for.

"You know they have quite a few guys who have played in the NHL and a lot who thought they should have. If they play as hard as they did tonight, they'll win a lot of games this year, even from the six old clubs."

Sullivan said his biggest disappointment was the inability of Pittsburgh's power play to connect.

"It was one of our strong points in preseason games," he said. "We must have scored 11 or 12 goals in nine games on the power play. But then we didn't play any of these teams. Remember, we've been together only 31 days and some of them have been playing together for 10 or 15 years."

The Penguins, who rolled up a 7-11 record against other expansion teams and minor league clubs in exhibition play, actually allowed Montreal to score its first goal while shorthanded.

Beliveau's goal early in the second period made it 2-0 and that's the way it stayed until Andy Bathgate of the Penguins fired a 60-footer past Vachon in the eighth minute of the third period.

7 Games In Area Friday, Homecoming For Oak Glen

Beaver Local, Midland On Road

East Liverpool doesn't play until Saturday night this week, but there are seven games in the area tomorrow night to keep the local fans occupied.

Oak Glen Hosts Philip Barbour of Phillipi, W. Va., Midland travels to Burgettstown, Beaver Local is at East Palestine, Columbiana and Leetonia clash at Leeis at Center Twp., near Monaca, and Lisbon enteris at Centery Twp., near Monaca, and Lisbon entertains Sebring.

The Golden Bears of Bob Starkey are 1-4 on the year, but played a fine game against powerful Wheeling Central last week before falling in the final minutes 18-13. Oak Glen has beaten Triadelphia while losing to Weirton Madonna, Follansbee and Wellsburg. Alan Six is the leading rusher for the Golden Bears and Craig Whittington has been an effective passer on occasion. The game is homecoming for Oak Glen.

Philip Barbour is 3-2-1. It played a scoreless tie with Fairmont West, lost to Buckhannon 13-0 and to Morgantown 27-20, and beat Grafton 20-6, Clarksburg Notre Dame 6-0 and University High of Morgantown 31-0 last week. Halfback Bob Snider and fullback Ben Roy are the top runners for George Bryer's team, while tackle Allen Gray and guard Jim Zirkle are the top linemen. Zirkle was an Monongahela Valley lineman of the week earlier this year. Last year Philip Barbour beat the Golden Bears 26-21.

Midland, 2-2-1, is without injury for the first time in several weeks, though Barney Newman will miss the game for religious reasons. Pat McShane will start at center and Bill Love at middle guard in Newman's place. Paul Francis and Anthony (Buck) Williams, previously hurt, will be ready to play. Burgettstown is 3-2, 2-1, in Class A play. The Blue Devils lost to Waynesburg 6-0 and Weirton Madonna 24-6 before winning their last three, 52-12 over South Park, 21-19 over Freedom and 28-13 over Carnegie. Mel Riddle is their top runner and Leopard coach Joe Hamilton respects their 5-3 defense, especially against passing. Midland won 32-0 last year and 7-0 the year before.

Beaver Local, which has won three straight after two losses, faces East Palestine, which has dropped its last two after three straight wins. The only common foe has been Leetonia, which topped the Beavers 24-6 and downed the Bulldogs 13-6. The Beavers' passing attack has been rolling in high gear lately, with Dennis Klembara finding Rex Campbell his favorite target. Joe Thompson is the top runner for the Bulldogs and Jim Taucher is a standout at end on offense and defense.

Columbiana, 5-0, could all but clinch the Tri-County League title with a win over Leetonia, 4-1. The Bears were upset by Minerva 24-20 last week, but hope to bounce back. Halfback Ken DiCross scored twice in the loss and fullback Danny Bell, the top rusher on the team, got the other TD. The game will be homecoming for the Bears and Coach Dick Hartzell predicts his team will be ready for the Clippers. Ray Bellisari's club is led by Bill Ward, the leading scorer in the county, and George Lynn, a standout lineman.

Southern Local is 2-2 and Crestview 2-3. They have played no common opponents. Rich Rose, who scored 26 points in last week's rout of Greenford, leads Beau Bell's young Southern team. Joe Remis is the top runner for Dick Scarborough's Rebels.

Western Beaver, 3-2 overall and 1-0 in Class B play, hopes to remain alive in B title competion at Center Twp., 2-2. The Trojans opened with wins over Mars, 13-0, and Sharpsburg 35-14, but fell to Avalon 19-0 and Quaker Valley 13-7. Jim D'Antonio's club went 8-0 last year. The game will be played at Monaca High's field. Western also fell to Quaker Valley, 19-0, and beat Mars 20-7, so the game figures to be close. Joe Rasillo has taken over as the quarterback for Dan Sekeres' team, with John Petchel, Dwayne Cooper and Bob Paulovich rounding out the backfield. Nick Cilli shines on defense.

Lisbon, the surprise team of the area this year with a 4-1 mark, should have no trouble with Sebring, 2-3. The Trojans have edged United, 8-0, and Poland 6-0, and lost to Champion, 6-0, to East Palestine 46-6 and to Louisville 42-0. Lisbon beat common opponents East Palestine 13-8 and Poland 22-0. Quarterback Randy Muntean is the top scorer for Bud Bucher's Blue Devils, while Jim Badderly is the top runner for Chet Riffle's Sebring squad.

Montreal's Beliveau Gets 400th

Penguins Lose NHL Opener 2-1

By IRA MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — There was happiness almost all the way around after the first game matching old and new in the expanded National Hockey League.

Coach Toe Blake of old Montreal, the 2-1 victor over new Pittsburgh, said the Penguins were tougher than he thought they'd be.

Red Sullivan, the Pittsburgh coach, said his club was good, but could have been better.

And Jean Beliveau, winning it with his 400th goal, joining a select pair . . . well, it was just like the other 399, he said.

Actually, the Penguins never thought they'd be embarassed against any of the established teams and now that they've played one of them, fear of embraassment has vanished for thoughts of victory.

"I thought we played pretty well in spots," said Sullivan. "But we could have played better. If we had gotten one or two goals early it would have made a difference.

"But you have to give (Rogatien) Vachon a lot of credit. He made five or six real good saves on us."

Bealiveau, who has scored more goals than any other center in NHL history and more than anyone at all except the incomparable Gordie Howe and Maurice Richards said simply, "it was awfully nice."

He said he didn't particularly value his 400th goal any more than the others, except that it turned out to be a winning goal.

Beliveau is in his 15th season. Howe, in his 22nd year, has 649, and Richard scored 544 in 18 seasons.

Blake said he thought all along the expansion teams would be competitive.

"I even had a meeting this afternoon before the game to tell my players this team is up and waiting for this game," he said. "They practiced well, they played well in the exhibition games. I expected a tough game and we got all . . . we got more than we bargained for.

"You know they have quite a few guys who have played in the NHL and a lot who thought they should have. If they play as hard as they did tonight, they'll win a lot of games this year, even from the six old clubs."

Sullivan said his biggest disappointment was the inability of Pittsburgh's power play to connect.

"It was one of our strong points in preseason games," he said. "We must have scored 11 or 12 goals in nine games on the power play. But then we didn't play any of these teams. Remember, we've been together only 31 days and some of them have been playing together for 10 or 15 years."

The Penguins, who rolled up a 7-11 record against other expansion teams and minor league clubs in exhibition play, actually allowed Montreal to score its first goal while shorthanded.

Beliveau's goal early in the second period made it 2-0 and that's the way it stayed until Andy Bathgate of the Penguins fired a 60-footer past Vachon in the eighth minute of the third period.

Gil Hodges Happy After Signing 3-Year Met Pact

NEW YORK (AP) — For Gil Hodges, there is no place like home, and fortunately for the New York Mets, home is only about 30 minutes from Shea Stadium.

And that, more than any other reason, is why Hodges is manager of the Mets today.

Since 1948, when he began a glory-filled career with the old Brooklyn Dodgers, this gentle giant has made his home on Bedford and Ave. M in Flatbush.

Brooklyn fans cheered him for 11 years before the Dodgers moved to Los Angeles and they welcomed him again in 1962 when he returned as a member of the New York Mets expansion club. He left again in 1963 to manage the Washington Senators, but his heart and home remained in Brooklyn.

So Wednesday, he tucked "the best contract I've ever had in baseball" in his pocket, gave up his Washington job and took on the chore of bringing respectability to the Mets.

Hodges passed over the remaining year on his pact with the Senators and signed a three-year contract at an estimated $60,000 a year to call the shots at Shea Stadium.

"It was quite a decision to make," he told a press conference in Boston before the sixth game of the World Series. "My association with the Washington club was wonderful at all times.

"Money is important, but it was not the motivating factor. The most important thing in my decision was that I'll be coming home."

Hodges, 43, replaces Wes Westrum, who resigned shortly before the season ended after two years at the Mets' helm. After four last-place finishes, the Mets climbed to ninth under Westrum in 1966 before returning to the cellar this season.

The Mets will pay the Senators an estimated $40,000 for the final year on Hodges' Washington contract and also will send along a player to be named later.

Oakland Target Of Finley

CHICAGO (AP) — It's Westward Ho! to Oakland, Calif., for Charles O. Finley and his Kansas City Athletics baseball franchise—if he can collect six votes from other American League owners to make the shift next year.

Finely announced Wednesday that he has decided on Oakland for his A's, who were shifted to Kansas City from Philadelphia in 1955.

"I have informed the other owners in the league of my intentions," he said. "It will take six votes in addition to our own to get permission. I'm not sure I've got them. I have no guarantee or assurance at all. I'm just hopeful."

The league owners will meet in Chicago Wednesday and Finley said he was hopeful the move will be approved then.

Finley, who said he made up his mind on Oakland only Tuesday, said he had advised the governor of Washington and mayor of Seattle of his decision.

"I told them," he said, "that they don't have the facilities today in Seattle for major league sports but that the Pacific Northwest is a great area and will be wonderful for baseball in the future."

If the Athletes, last place in the American League race this season, get permission to move, Kansas City as well as Seattle will be given consideration in any future expansion plans.

Len Dawson Offensive AFL Player

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

There was nothing wrong with Len Dawson's scoring touch that three days of rain couldn't cure.

Dawson, forced into a passing game by steady rains which left the field muddy, hurled five touchdown passes in Kansas City's 41-0 rout of Miami last Sunday and was named the American Football League's Offensive Player of the Week by The Associated Press.

There had been some concern in the Chiefs' camp when Dawson passed for only four TDs in the first three games this season. But the combination of rain and a Miami blitz changed all that.

"The field was muddy, bad for the running game," explained Dawson, who completed 13 of 23 for 250 yards including the five TDs. "They were blitzing, which meant man-for-man coverage on our receivers. So I threw."

Fred Arbanas and Otis Taylor each caught two TD passes from Dawson and it was the first Chiefs' TD — a 77-yard scoring pitch to Taylor on an impromptu play — that broke down the Dolphins for the day.

It was third down with one yard to go and Dawson sent Mike Garrett off tackle. The Dolphins diagnosed the play and Garrett was stopped cold. Dawson, seeing the Miami line ganging up on Garrett, called for the ball. As Garrett went down, he lateraled back to the quarterback.

"I was going to run. We only needed one yard," said Dawson. "I just glanced downfield and there was Otis, all by himself. He was so wide open, I just had to throw the ball."

Gil Hodges Happy After Signing 3-Year Met Pact

NEW YORK (AP) — For Gil Hodges, there is no place like home, and fortunately for the New York Mets, home is only about 30 minutes from Shea Stadium.

And that, more than any other reason, is why Hodges is manager of the Mets today.

Since 1948, when he began a glory-filled career with the old Brooklyn Dodgers, this gentle giant has made his home on Bedford and Ave. M in Flatbush.

Brooklyn fans cheered him for 11 years before the Dodgers moved to Los Angeles and they welcomed him again in 1962 when he returned as a member of the New York Mets expansion club. He left again in 1963 to manage the Washington Senators, but his heart and home remained in Brooklyn.

So Wednesday, he tucked "the best contract I've ever had in baseball" in his pocket, gave up his Washington job and took on the chore of bringing respectability to the Mets.

Hodges passed over the remaining year on his pact with the Senators and signed a three-year contract at an estimated $60,000 a year to call the shots at Shea Stadium.

"It was quite a decision to make," he told a press conference in Boston before the sixth game of the World Series. "My association with the Washington club was wonderful at all times.

"Money is important, but it was not the motivating factor. The most important thing in my decision was that I'll be coming home."

Hodges, 43, replaces Wes Westrum, who resigned shortly before the season ended after two years at the Mets' helm. After four last-place finishes, the Mets climbed to ninth under Westrum in 1966 before returning to the cellar this season.

The Mets will pay the Senators an estimated $40,000 for the final year on Hodges' Washington contract and also will send along a player to be named later.

Dawson, forced into a passing game by steady rains which left the field muddy, hurled five touchdown passes in Kansas City's 41-0 rout of Miami last Sunday and was named the American Football League's Offensive Player of the Week by The Associated Press.

There had been some concern in the Chiefs' camp when Dawson passed for only four TDs in the first three games this season. But the combination of rain and a Miami blitz changed all that.

Oakland Target Of Finley

CHICAGO (AP) — It's Westward Ho! to Oakland, Calif., for Charles O. Finley and his Kansas City Athletics baseball franchise—if he can collect six votes from other American League owners to make the shift next year.

Finely announced Wednesday that he has decided on Oakland for his A's, who were shifted to Kansas City from Philadelphia in 1955.

"I have informed the other owners in the league of my intentions," he said. "It will take six votes in addition to our own to get permission. I'm not sure I've got them. I have no guarantee or assurance at all. I'm just hopeful."

The league owners will meet in Chicago Wednesday and Finley said he was hopeful the move will be approved then.

Finley, who said he made up his mind on Oakland only Tuesday, said he had advised the governor of Washington and mayor of Seattle of his decision.

"I told them," he said, "that they don't have the facilities today in Seattle for major league sports but that the Pacific Northwest is a great area and will be wonderful for baseball in the future."

If the Athletes, last place in the American League race this season, get permission to move, Kansas City as well as Seattle will be given consideration in any future expansion plans.

Thieves Loot House Here; Steal Purses

Intruders obtained $15 in change in ransacking a Park Way home Wednesday and two women's purses were looted by a sneak thief last night in a downtown tavern, police reported.

The $15 in 25-cent and 50-cent pieces was taken from the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Bloomgren of 2525 Park Way while both members of the family were absent. Mrs. Bloomgren told officers she left home at 11:45 a. m. and the entry was discovered by her husband when he returned at 3:45 p.m.

The intruders forced a door on the west side of the house by tearing away the latch. In ransacking the home, the intruders took the coins from two change purses and a box on a dresser. They ignored two watches and a jar of pennies on another dresser.

The two purses were stolen from a spot behind the bar in the Washington Restaurant on E. 6th St., officers said. Both thefts were reported at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Nora Reeder of E. 6th St., a patron at the restaurant, said a thief took the wallet from her purse and removed $7 in cash and a diamond ring valued at $250. Her wallet was not found.

Thieves Loot House Here; Steal Purses

Intruders obtained $15 in change in ransacking a Park Way home Wednesday and two women's purses were looted by a sneak thief last night in a downtown tavern, police reported.

The $15 in 25-cent and 50-cent pieces was taken from the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Bloomgren of 2525 Park Way while both members of the family were absent. Mrs. Bloomgren told officers she left home at 11:45 a. m. and the entry was discovered by her husband when he returned at 3:45 p.m.

The intruders forced a door on the west side of the house by tearing away the latch. In ransacking the home, the intruders took the coins from two change purses and a box on a dresser. They ignored two watches and a jar of pennies on another dresser.

The two purses were stolen from a spot behind the bar in the Washington Restaurant on E. 6th St., officers said. Both thefts were reported at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Lois Hamilton, a waitress, told officers a wallet was stolen from her pocketbook, which she had placed behind the bar. The thief removed $18 and some change and then discarded the wallet outside the men's room. The wallet and all other contents were recovered.

Mrs. Nora Reeder of E. 6th St., a patron at the restaurant, said a thief took the wallet from her purse and removed $7 in cash and a diamond ring valued at $250. Her wallet was not found.

Three more petty thefts were reported last night and this morning.

Junior Editors Quiz on CHAIRS

QUESTION: Who invented the chair?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: This is a question which is impossible to answer because no historian was on hand to record the name of the first man who found it more comfortable to sit on something which rested his back and legs than to squat on his haunches. However, our artist has given us his conception of the first chair and the chair idea may have resulted from some such combination of stone and tree. Chairs were one of the refinements introduced in the great Egyptian civilization. We show a chair (A) used by Pharaoh Tutankhamen and a smaller one (B) on which one of the king's servants sits plucking a goose. Comfortable chairs in those days were reserved for the nobility and other high-born people. As time went by, however, the comfort of a good chair came to be regarded as everyone's right and so we had (C) the soothing rocking chair in which the old folks liked to sit and (D) the overstuffed chairs of our time, preferred by young and old alike.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Oct. 12, the 285th day of 1967. There are 80 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1492, Christopher Columbus discovered America.

On this date—

In 1870, Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee died in Lexington, Va.

In 1934, Peter II became king of Yugoslavia.

In 1942, American forces were victorious in the Battle of Cape Esperance on Guadalcanal during World War II.

In 1945, the Allied Control Council in Germany ordered the dissolution of the Nazi party.

In 1960, the decorum of the U.N. General Assembly was shattered as Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev pounded his desk with his shoe.

Ten years ago — Britain's Queen Elizabeth and her husband, Prince Philip, flew to Ottawa to begin a 10-day visit to Canada and the United States.

Five years ago — The Soviet Union expelled a military aide to the U.S. Embassy on grounds of espionage.

One year ago—A housewives' rebellion against high food costs set off a supermarket price war in the Midwest.
